MAN HEELS SUED ON $50,000 NOTES MOVIE VENTURE

Young Hollander Was to Have Been Made Vice President of Cabanne Film Enterprise.

MARRIED WIDOW OF JAMES CAMPBELL

Concern in Receivership on Creditors' Petition and Embryo First Production
Never Left Studio.

When William Christy Cabanne, actor, movie director and promoter of St. Louis movies, stood at the front window of his suite in Hotel Chase last year and related to a reporter how he planned to use money from the old home town in his production—to refresh “fans” and by so doing, so much of Los Angeles streets—he waved his hand toward fashionable Portland and Westmoreland places and told how the houses there would help his work.

It wasn't long before the prepossessing young Cabanne and his business agent met the couple who dwell in Westmoreland place, directly across King's highway from the director's suite—Mr. and Mrs. Van Heel; Van Heel, the young Hollander who had dabbled in the movies at Hollywood, and his wife, who was the widow of James Campbell, public utility magnate, who left her half the income of a $200,000 estate.

Invested Heavily.
The acquaintance of Cabanne and the Van Heels unfolded an unexpected way in which a house in Westmoreland place might be useful to the project and the Van Heels were induced to invest heavily in the William Christy Cabanne Motion Picture Trust, Ltd., which is now in receivership. First, Cabanne, his business agent and Van Heel dined together at the hotel. The young Hollander's interest in the movies fostered friendship and soon the promoters were dining in the hour across the boulevard and sketching their plans with engaging manner.

Van Heel was to have been made vice president of the corporation which was planned to succeed the estate—after the first film had swept the theaters of every metropolis and hamlet. But a number of investors shattered the castle by repudiating or failing to redeem their pledges, and a suit filed in Circuit Court today alleges that the Van Heels applied one of the hardest blows.

A legal phrase the suit is styled “Van Heel vs. Cabanne, et al.” The estate of James Campbell, public utility magnate, who left her half the income of a $200,000 estate, was executed by Mrs. Van Heel in favor of the Cabanne trust, and assigned by the trust to the bank; and that they bore Van Heel's signature.

Said to Be in Europe.
It is also set forth that the notes were dated May 1, 1923, and made payable at different times between May 1 and Jan. 1, but that as they matured and at various times thereafter demands by the bank for payment were unsuccessful. The bank, just as banks always do, forces a new court scene in the case of the Cabanne fiasco. The Van Heels have entered their appearance in the case through counsel. It was said today at their residence, 2 Westmoreland place, that they are in Europe.

There were scores of other prominent St. Louisans who were persuaded to invest in the scheme, being largely influenced by Cabanne's enthusiasm, reputation and ability. At that time it was announced that $162,700 had been subscribed for interests in the proposed $250,000 trust estate. Pledges and checks were instruments of different color, the promoters found to their sorrow, and the bank related. Counsel for the trustees at first announced that about $25,000 in subscriptions had been defaulted. Creditors obtained receivership in the New York federal court last October, and the embryo film production, a typical “silent” called “The Eternal Forest,” lay in the rented New York city.

$100,000 FOR DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION ASSURED

Directors of Business Organizations Agree to Indorse Note on Which Sum Will be Borrowed to Make Bid.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau, St. Louis Hotel Men's Association and Associated Retailers, at a joint meeting this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce voted to sign a note on which will be borrowed $100,000, in order that a cashier's check for that amount can be taken to Washington to be used in the effort to get the National Democratic Convention.

Directors of each of the organizations will have separate meetings tomorrow to formally ratify the action and authorize the president of each to bind the organization on the note. The delegation will leave Saturday for Washington.

If the convention is secured the organizations will raise the difference between the total of subscriptions otherwise obtained and the $100,000. If the convention is not secured of course the money will not be needed.

As told in late editions of the Post-Dispatch yesterday the total of pledges actually signed at the conclusion of the three-day drive was $70,368, nearly $30,000 short of the minimum quota. The total contains pledges by members of the Hotel Men's Association and gregating only $13,300 of the total.

SPENCER RETREATS AFTER BRUSH WITH PAT HARRISON

Democrat Cross-Examines St.
Louisian After He Reads Article on Coolidge to Senate.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Having twice failed to get the unanimous consent of the Senate to insert in the Congressional Record, without reading, an article on “The Scientific Policy to Know Who President Coolidge,” Senator Spencer of Missouri this afternoon achieved his end by reading the article on the Senate floor. Five Senators on the Republican side and about 15 on the Democratic were in their seats, most of them absorbed in newspapers.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, who enjoys nothing better than a tilt with the Missouriian, kept an attentive ear cocked at Spencer during the reading. As Spencer paused, Harrison got to his feet and begged leave to interrupt. But Spencer had concluded the article and declined to be interrupted. Harrison wanted to know how had written the place, and Spencer replied that it was Arthur McDonald of Washington. Harrison began a cross-examination. He wanted to know who McDonald was, and whether McDonald was acquainted with the President and whether McDonald was a job seeker. Spencer was unable to enlighten him.

WALL ST. PUTS $840,000,000 VALUE ON FORD MOTOR STOCK

Estimate of Experts Based on Public Valuation and Profits of Associated Company.
NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Wall Street statisticians who for years have wondered what the total stock of the Ford Motor Co. was worth, today hazarded the estimate of $840,000,000, and said they believed it would total $1,260,000,000 within another year. The computations were based on the public valuation of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, profits per car made by the Dominion corporation and the one in this country, the former earning $68 a car and the latter $67, and the market valuation of the Canadian stock, which is $25 a share. Comparing the value of the Canadian stock, the profit per car there and the valuation of the company, with the profit per car here, plus the United States production, the experts believed they had figured the first definite fiscal information the financial district ever has had about the Detroit plant.

LEAVES THIRD OF $500,000 ESTATE TO HIS EMPLOYEES

“I Shall Take Care of All of You,” Charles Her-

Business Associates.

Charles Herboth kept his promise. His will filed in Probate Court today leaves one-third of his $500,000 estate to all those in his employ.

“I shall take care of all of you,” he had said frequently to the employees at the Herboth Mercantile Co., 1438 North Broadway. Paul Bandelow, manager of the business, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today.

However, there is some doubt as to the number of employees who will share in the bequest. The will was made June 1, 1923. Whether the phrase “all those in my employ” could be construed to mean all those employed by Herboth at the time the will was drawn or at the time of his death is a fine legal question. Forrest P. Trailles, his attorney, is not so sure.

SUBMARINE OF BRITISH NAVY IS LOST IN COLLISION

Submersible Said to Have Been Rammed by Dread-naught—Crew of 30 May Have Perished.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Jan. 10.—An admiralty message says the British submarine L-24 has been lost in a collision. It is feared the entire crew perished.

The L-24, which is reported to have had 30 men aboard, collided with the dreadnaught Resolution off Portland, a rocky promontory, on the Isle of Portland, extending into the English Channel. It is unofficially reported that the submarine was rammed by the dreadnaught.

Official announcement that the L-24 had sunk, “it is feared, with the loss of all hands,” was made by the admiralty this afternoon. The announcement said the disaster occurred while the submarine was maneuvering off Portland.

Every effort is being made to locate the wreck, the approximate position of which is known.

SOME DOUBT AS TO NUMBER AFFECTED

Question as to Whether Beneficiaries Include Only Those With Company at Time of His Death.

Charles Herboth kept his promise. His will filed in Probate Court today leaves one-third of his $500,000 estate to all those in his employ.

“I shall take care of all of you,” he had said frequently to the employees at the Herboth Mercantile Co., 1438 North Broadway. Paul Bandelow, manager of the business, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today.

However, there is some doubt as to the number of employees who will share in the bequest. The will was made June 1, 1923. Whether the phrase “all those in my employ” could be construed to mean all those employed by Herboth at the time the will was drawn or at the time of his death is a fine legal question. Forrest P. Trailles, his attorney, is not so sure.

There are at present eight employees of the Herboth Mercantile Co., including Bandelow. Herboth also employed a Miss Walsh to act as companion to his wife, a cook, maid and houseman. That makes 12, but just who among the 12 will be included by law as beneficiaries is uncertain. William Hayes, stock clerk, had worked for the Herboth firm but four months and Albert Kanauer, salesman, six months. If the will was construed to mean all those employed at the time the testament was drawn they would not be beneficiaries.

The will was made, according to Trailles, when Herboth was ill at St. Anthony's hospital and about to undergo an operation. He wrote it himself, used nurses for witnesses and swore to it before a notary public. Trailles believes it a sound document, the only difficulty in prospect being the construction of “all those in my employ.”

Herboth died Jan. 2 at his home, 4934 Buckingham court, after a long illness. He was 67 years old, and had been in business in St. Louis for 40 years.

Another third of his estate is bequeathed to his widow, Mrs. Anna Herboth. The remainder is to be divided equally between the children of Mrs. Herboth, a deceased daughter, Mrs. Frances Kunz and Mrs. Jacob Stumpf of Newark, N. J. The will was dated June 1 last.

The Herboth Mercantile Co. does a general wholesale business, but those in the business are few and specialized in the kitchen utensils. Most of the eight employees have been with the firm a number of years. Bandelow had worked for Herboth 25 years.

The testament mentions the bequest as “to all the people who work for me.” It specifies that Bandelow shall be given $5000 outright and the remainder be divided among the other employees. If their shares exceed their own value, then the remainder shall be divided again. This division is to be equal among the eight.

Although he refused to be quoted, a man familiar with Herboth's holdings appraised the estate at $500,000. Thus each of the employees possibly may get as much as $15,000.

Mrs. Herboth, Mansfield White and James M. Webb are named executors of the will. In addition to Bandelow, the employees who may benefit under the will, and their occupations and periods of service, are: Otto Hartke, salesman, 15 years with firm; Robert Ruckstuhl, stock clerk, six years; Geo. Buehler, chauffeur, six years; Miss Marie Bolger, secretary, six years; her sister, Miss Alice Bolger, bookkeeper, two years; Albert Kanauer, salesman, six months, and William Hayes, porter, four months, and the household servants.

SUPPORTS TAX PLAN OF MELLON

Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The inaugural address which Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland delivered Tuesday at Annapolis is proving a document of unusual interest to Washington, not only because of its bold attack on Federal invasion of state rights but because Gov. Ritchie is being talked about as a possible compromise nominee of the Democrats for the presidency.

“One of the first Governor to be re-elected in Maryland since the Civil War. Speaking of the tax burden, Gov. Ritchie declared: “I, a Democrat, believing with all my heart that Democratic policies and Democratic supremacy are best for my State, and my country, am still in favor of Secretary Mellon's plan to lessen the burden of the present Federal income tax law.”

Retardation of Business.
He asserted that present taxation was one of the two great taxes which were holding back American business, agriculture and industry. “One of the contributory causes of the Federal invasion of the pocketbooks of the people, through taxation,” said Gov. Ritchie, “is the maintenance of an enormous and growing overhead of bureaus and commissions, of which some are not needed, others should be curtailed, and still others do work and spend money for purposes which should be turned back to the states, because they belong to the realm of state government.”

“The most outstanding illustration today of the latter class relates to the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. For this purpose the Federal Government has already appropriated $9,379,770 for the next fiscal year, and the Federal budget has just approved $28,500,000 more.”

$44 Tax Per Capita.
Gov. Ritchie showed that in 1922 the Federal Government collected in Maryland from all sources a $44.66 per capita tax or nearly four and a half times as much per capita as the State collected.

“Why does the Federal Government stretch forth its hand into the State of Maryland and require our people to pay in each year four times as much as we pay our State government? Is this necessary and is it wise? Not, does the power exist to do it, but should that power be exercised?”

“It is not my purpose to complain of an unwarranted invasion of the Federal Government of the liberties of the Maryland people,” Gov. Ritchie declared, in discussing the Volstead act. “But it is my purpose to ask that Maryland have her day in court, and that you do not act until her people have had the opportunity to decide for themselves as free Americans, at the polls, whether they want this restriction on their liberties, or whether they do not.”

“Prohibition enforcement is only one instance of the encroachment of Federal power upon the functions of the states. Just now it holds the stage and holds it so prominently as to obscure the fact that after all it is simply one phase of the only question of principle upon which the American people can with consistency divide politically today. That is the wisdom of a score of Federal encroachments.”

RETURNS TO U. S. TO FIGHT FOR ESTATE

COUNTRESS GUENTHER VON BERNSTORFF.

COUNTRESS SEEKING FORTUNE AND DIVORCE

American Daughter-in-Law of Former Ambassador Von Bernstorff Back in U. S.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Countess Guenther von Bernstorff, daughter-in-law of the former German Ambassador to the United States, an American-born girl, who twice has been wedded to foreign nobility, arrived on the Majestic today after a 10-year absence, to re-establish her citizenship and regain a fortune held by the Allen Property Custodian, preliminary to seeking a divorce from her German husband.

She said she would remain at a New York hotel for a few days until she learned what was the sentiment in her home city, Burlington, N. J., toward receiving one who was denounced during the world war for remaining loyal to her German husband.

“I’ve had letters,” she said, “terrible ones, some of them expressing perfect fury that I should think of revisiting Burlington. So I’m going to be catfish and stop at the Ritz-Carlton until they send for me.”

Adopted as an orphan by William Thomason, retired insurance man of Burlington, Countess von Bernstorff was first married to James Birch, brother of the then American Minister to Portugal. They were divorced and she married the Baron von Radek, a reputation as the most beautiful American woman to wed royalty accompanying her when she went to Germany to live.

Shortly before the war Berlin was stirred by reports of a duel between Baron von Radek and Count Guenther von Bernstorff. There were reports that one of the duelists had been demoted in army rank and that the other had been scolded by the Kaiser. Soon thereafter the von Radeks were divorced. The Baroness, becoming Countess von Bernstorff, the Countess declined today to go into details of her future plans. She said she would remain in America as long as it took to regain her citizenship so she could claim the property impounded during the war because of her marital relationship.

“Then we shall see,” she said. “I suppose I shall have to return to Germany if I want a divorce. Maybe soon; maybe it will take several years. The Allen Property Custodian has been nice to me. He arranged to advance me $10,000 so I could come to America.” The last she saw of von Bernstorff was three months ago at Frankfurt, she explained.

SPEYER, Rhineland Palatinate, Jan. 10.—Herr Heintz, the separatist leader, President of the autonomous Government of the Palatinate, was assassinated here last night.

Later five persons were killed in collisions between the separatists, whose headquarters are here, and the populace of the city.

Four Separatist Leaders Killed in the Attack.
By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Jan. 10.—The Frankfurter Zeitung reporting the assassination at Speyer of Herr Heintz, president of the autonomous government of the Rhineland Palatinate, says that three other separatist leaders were shot dead in a Speyer hotel. Several persons were wounded. The shootings were the work of a band of armed men.

A message from Frankfurt gives the names of the four separatist leaders who were shot and killed in addition to President Heintz. They were Boerha, Welsand, Weigel and Fushler.

Masked Slaying Drive to Scene in Automobile and Escape in R. Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
SPEYER, Germany, Jan. 10.—The assassins of Herr Heintz, all masked, drove up to the restaurant in an automobile. They entered and began firing in the direction of the table where Heintz was dining. He fell from his chair at the first volley and was dead when help reached him. The men then fled in their car.

The French Foreign Office announced several days ago that several Germans had been arrested by French occupational troops in the Rhineland and confessed belonging to a secret anti-separatist society in the Rhineland. The International Council of Ambassadors was asked to investigate the activities of this society.

Rhineland Commission to Make Immediate Investigation.
By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Jan. 10.—The delegates of the international Rhineland Commission are going to the Bavarian Palatinate to make an investigation on the spot of the activities, attributed to secret organizations, which culminated last night in the assassination of Herr Heintz, president of the autonomous government.

It was announced today in official quarters here that the British Government was in accord with the other allies as to this investigation and that an exchange of views regarding it was occurring between M. de Peretti Della Rocca, director of political affairs of the foreign office, and Sir Eric Phipps, the British charge d'affaires.

CHRISTIANIA, Jan. 10.—The Norwegian Government intends to propose to the Parliament the abolition of the prohibition upon spirits, according to information from reliable quarters.

The Norwegian law formerly prohibited the importation and sale of spirits and heavy wines, but last March restrictions on wine imports from Spain and Portugal were removed, that Norwegian fish might enter those countries, from which they had been barred in retaliation.

More Indemnities Expected.
The grand jury this afternoon will resume investigation of the alterations of tax records in the Assessor's office. Circuit Attorney Fournier said he had hopes that indemnities will be returned against the more tax payers, but Side-man would not commit himself on that point.

It became known today that William C. Caulfield Jr., an employee of the Assessor's office, who has been indicted, was given a chance to show State's evidence but refused.
Ground Bass, attorney for Caul-field, in denying a rumor that Caul-field would turn State's evidence, said he was given the chance because he was indicted.

Reference to O'Donnell.
The reference was to Edmund A.
O'Donnell, who was with Caulfield in the World War and for whom indemnity is alleged to have altered
the assessment record, enabling him to escape payment of taxes.

At the beginning of the investigation Sidener questioned several from the Assessor's office. It was understood at the time that he was getting from them the office records, but it is now supposed that he offered them immunity for tes-

Granddaughter of Man Who Left $40,000,000, Bride of L. S. von Hoogstraeten.

By Leased Wire From the N. Y.
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Miss Mary Millicent Rogers, 27 years old, heiress to the $40,000,000 estate left by her grandfather, the late H. H. Rogers, one of the organizers of the Standard Oil Company, and Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, about the head of the Austrian house bearing his name, were married Tuesday in the Municipal Building.

News of the ceremony came as a surprise to Miss Rogers' parents, Col. and Mrs. Henry H. Rogers, at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. On the day of the wedding they unannounced
they would sail for Europe Saturday on the Majestic with their daughter and son, Henry H. Rogers Jr. Following the marriage, the bookings were cancelled, and the couple and Countess are now with their parents at the Ritz-Carlton, where Col. Rogers last night issued a brief announcement of the ceremony.

The former Miss Rogers has been prominent in society and in 1920 was reported to be engaged to James M. Thompson Jr. Later
the engagement was broken.

Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten, who served with the Austrian cavalry regiment during the war and later as aide to the military governor of Vienna, is a brother of Count Otto Salm von Hoogstraeten, who in 1916 married Miss Maud Coster, daughter of Mrs.
Charles Henry Coster. The von Hoogstraeten ancestral home is in Reichenau, Austria.

The Count was married in 1903 to the Baroness Frankenthal, but was divorced from her in 1912. As a tennis player the Count has qualified for several European championship tournaments and has played in doubles with Suzanne Langlen and the late Anthony Wilding.

Berlin Cats to Be Muzzled.

BERLIN, Jan. 10.—Berlin cats which stray beyond their own thresholds must hereafter be muzzled, according to a new police decree. Any unmuzzled tabby or tom will be shot immediately, says the edict. The order results from the recent discovery of several cats suffering from hydrophobia.

Arnold Block Says Baseball Player Knocked Him Down While He Was Waiting to Get Coat.
James F. Fournier, of 424 West Pine boulevard, first baseman of the Brooklyn National League baseball club, was fined $25 by Judge Miller in the Court of Criminal Correction today for assaulting Arnold Block of 36 Washington terrace, early in the morning of Nov. 18 last in the lobby of Hotel Chase. Fournier's counsel asked for a new trial.

Block testified he was waiting to get his coat from a check room
when Fournier, a stranger to him, hit him in the jaw and knocked him down. Another witness added that Fournier remarked, on seeing the waiting crowd, "I'm going to get my hat and coat if I have to knock somebody down, and I don't mean maybys."

Fournier declared that it was he who was waiting and that Block shoved him aside, then started to hit him when he complained. This was borne out by another witness who testified that Fournier had been drinking.

Block filed a $5000 damage suit against Fournier after the affray.

Father Finds Lost Boy.
James Robertson, the 11-year-old boy missing since last Thursday morning, when he left his home, 4245 Easton avenue, was found by his father, Charles S.
Robertson, selling newspapers at Grand boulevard and Olive street last night. The boy had been playing hooky from school and when he finished selling papers each day he loafed about a restaurant in the vicinity, and a woman employee of the place took him to her home and gave him lodging.

PHILADELPHIA RAIDS WORRY THE POLITICIANS

Mayor Kendrick's Drive on Underworld Said to Be Aimed at Aspirations of Gov. Pinchot.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—
Gummen, women of the street, sellers of hooch, gamblers and narcotic peddlers, who have made of the tenderloin, which has run wide open here for years, a filthy network of streets in which fun
screches with a hysterical note, have packed up and gone away—
for a few weeks.

The period of grace given the police force by Brigadier-General Smedley D. Butler, new police head, in which to clean the city of vice will expire at 3 o'clock today, and the underworld is saying that it is all a political gesture destined to last no longer than other sporadic reform waves the city has known.

About 40 police were raided last night and nearly 50 arrests made.
Enough gambling paraphernalia and stills were confiscated to fill two dozen patrol wagons.

Strange Collection of Police.
Despite activities of the police in their drive on the underworld, police reports showed that there were three holdups and 32 robberies in the city yesterday, netting $5000.
While Gen. Butler was at a downtown district station last night, six masked men attempted to rob a Gokysa warehouse, three blocks away.

The activity of the department forced by Gen. Butler when he announced that Philadelphia must be cleaned up "in 48 hours or police or police officers would be demoted," has brought onto the streets
the strangest collection of policemen this city has known. Men put out on post or into raiding parties.

The clean-up is causing uneasiness among the politicians. They profess to believe that Mayor Kendrick has started on the clean-up only to rid the Police Department of certain factions objectionable to the regular Republican organization and that he called in Gen.

Butler, a Republican, with no political aspirations.

But they have an unpleasant fear that Mayor Kendrick may decide he can get along without the "machine" altogether, and will start cleaning up some of the "machine" friends, if that proves true it will mean a real struggle between Kendrick and the "machine," which helps him.

The most reasonable explanation of this extraordinary activity on the part of a machine administration is that Kendrick hopes to tear down the grip of Gov. Pinchot, the political control of Pennsylvania.
The Governor has been becoming too friendly recently with the left wing of the Republicans here and in Washington. Anything within his power will be done to prevent his going into the next Republican national convention a real contender for the nomination for the presidency.

Pinchot Might Be Hurt.
As the "Wall Men" of Philadelphia politics explain the "Butler War," he was brought here because of the political importance of his Republican standpoint. Father, Congressman Thomas D. Butler of Westchester, Pa., head of a powerful committee in the House. Pin-chot has already tried to "clean up" Philadelphia, with scant success.

If Gen. Butler, get his background of conservatism, through the loan of his services in Philadelphia by the United States Government, cleans up Philadelphia, it will strengthen the cause of the Republican machine in the next national convention and perhaps destroy Pinchot politically and make out of Kendrick or Butler
the same sort of national figure Coolidge became after the Boston police strike.

Going to City Hall to Chop Off
Some Heads, Butler Says.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 10.—
"I'm going down to City Hall to chop off some heads," said Brigadier-General Butler, head of the Philadelphia police, today. "We've got to get rid of some of these bums," he added as he left the home of a relative after snatching
a few hours' sleep.

"Last night's work showed a decided improvement and I'm pleased with the way things are going," he declared. "In the future there will be two 48-hour periods each week during which time the housecleaning will continue. This will last until the first of January, 1925."

After several police officers had told him they had made no raids
because their districts were clean,
the General remarked, "Ah, another pure district, get busy."

An outstanding incident in the clean-up was the arrest of Stanley Karpinsky, who was charged with making liquor in his home, some of which his 8-year-old son is alleged to have taken to school and given to other boys. One boy was rendered almost unconscious.

WILLED ESTATE TO OLD FRIEND, CUT HIM OFF NEXT DAY

Woman, Who Lived in Room Over Garage and Left $30,000, Acted Because of Grievance.

A 17-year friendship caused Mrs.
Arenna Hart Pierson, who lived in a small dingy room over a garage, to will her $30,000 estate to Frank
X. Wentura, 226 King's highway Park, when she was near death at the City Hospital Aug. 11 last.

Twenty-four hours later some alleged act of Wentura, displeased her and she drew another will, ignoring him entirely and distributing the greater part of her estate to charity. She died Aug. 16.

The law provides that the last will and testament, if properly drawn, shall be accepted. Both wills were offered for probate, but the one of Aug. 12 was accepted and the document giving her estate to Wentura was rejected as a prior will.

Wentura immediately brought suit to declare the second will a product of undue influence of friends. He named as defendants Mrs. Flora A. Flannery, a life-long friend of Mrs. Pierson; William A.
Kinneer, the attorney who drew the will; and Harrison Hart, 82-year-old brother of Mrs. Pierson, who lives at the Soldiers' Home in Danville, Ill. Depositions in the suit were taken yesterday before Special Commissioner C. A. Hamilton in the Federal Reserve Bank Building.

Wentura traced the friendship of his family and Mrs. Pierson since 1865. He described how she had gradually drifted away from most of her friends to become a virtual recluse, living in one room over a garage in the rear of 3203 North Newstead avenue.

He recalled that his family had visited her about once a week while she lived over the garage and that on occasions she had visited his home. She had never made any statement of favoring Wentura
in her will, but had of late remarked in appreciation of his treatment that "you'll be taken care of."

Describing one visit to the dingy room above the garage last August, he said Mrs. Pierson lay upon the unkept bed, seriously ill. She told him she had not eaten for five days and that no one had been here to assist her. He insisted that she go to his home with him, but it was not until two days later that she accepted.

Taken to Hospital.
She remained at his home for four days, he testified, and then upon being taken to the city hospital on the night of Wednesday, Aug. 7. Saturday afternoon she asked for a lawyer and Wentura brought one to her bedside and then retired from the room.

Soon he was called in and she smiled at him and said: "There is the boy I want to get my property."

She asked a favor. She wanted her old friend, Mrs. Flora A. Flannery, to visit her. Would Wentura call her? Wentura called her and when he returned to see Mrs. Flannery Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Flannery was there.

Mrs. Pierson introduced them and then said to Wentura:
"You've passed on the wall the fact that I made a will yesterday."
"No, no, Aunt Rene," Wentura declared, "I assure you. No one knows of it but the lawyer and me."

Then he left her. Shortly afterward he learned that she had died.

that Miss Faherty walked in front

An unidentified man died early today at city hospital from a fractured skull suffered Tuesday when struck by a taxicab at Seventh and Barry streets. He appeared to be about 50 years old, weighed about 220 pounds and was poorly dressed.
He was unconscious when picked up, and did not recover sufficiently to give his name. The chauffeur, Joseph Masloff, of 1365 Louisville

from behind another automobile
into the path of his machine.

Mrs. Anna Heitmeyer, 29 years old, of 1224 Dillon street, was killed at 5:50 p. m. yesterday when she walked in front of an eastbound Belmont street car at Florissant avenue and King's highway. The motorman, James Perkins, of 5119 South Compton avenue, told police that as he approached the intersection he was watching a westbound car discharging passengers across the street, thinking they might hurry across in front of his car.

At this moment Mrs. Heitmeyer attempted to cross the street from Perkins' side and was hit. She suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Mrs. Heitmeyer was the mother of a 17 months old boy. She had been divorced from Theodore Heitmeyer of 4405 Wilcox avenue since Dec. 5.

3 MONTHS FOR DRIVER IN AUTO ACCIDENT

J. P. Noser, Who Is Partly Paralyzed, Also Fined $100 for Injuring Pedestrian.

Joseph P. Noser, 34 years old, of 212 South Jefferson avenue, who has been lame since childhood, was sentenced yesterday to "three months in jail and fined $100 by a jury in Circuit Judge Hamilton's court on charges of felonious wounding growing out of an automobile accident.

Noser, who operates an automobile, although partly paralyzed from the waist down and unable to walk without crutches, was driving a car which hit Virgil P. Moore, 3525 Westminster place, as Moore was crossing Locust street near Thirteenth street on July 29, last.

Moore, who suffered a fractured ankle, declared Noser was driving between 25 and 30 miles an hour. Ray Mount, 3529 Delmar boulevard, also injured as he was crossing the street with Moore, corroborated Moore's testimony, as did another witness.

Noser maintained that Moore and Mount were "jay walking" and asserted they stepped directly in front of his machine, then became confused and dodged around so that he was unable to avoid them. He said his speed was about 15 miles an hour. A motion for a new trial was filed.

CHOIR SINGER GETS VERDICT

Winifred Gaynor Alleged to Have Said "Cutting" Things.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Winifred Gaynor, who sang solos at Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church until Dec. 1, might have said "naughty, cutting" things about the choir leader and gossiped about the tenor's ability, but the church had no right to break its contract with her, a Municipal Court jury decided yesterday. She was awarded $175. Miss Gaynor is grandniece of a former New York Mayor.

John Cushing, the choir leader, declared that Miss Gaynor, "with prima donna ways," played an hour from rehearsals and he remonstrated with her, informing her that in his opinion she needed the rehearsals more than anyone in the choir. Whereupon, he said, she became huffed, threw back her head and said, through her teeth: "To h— with you, Mr. Cushing." The choir leader was corroborated in these statements by a matronly chorister.

5 SENTENCED FOR ROBBERY

Men Convicted at Poplar Bluff Said to Be St. Louisans.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Jan. 10.—J. P. Callahan, Frank Witte and James Watson were found guilty of assaulting and robbing Mrs. F. G. Potillo in her grocery here, Dec. 14 last, in a verdict returned Tuesday night by a circuit court jury. Callahan was sentenced to eight years in the penitentiary and Watson and Witte to five years each. Joe Bisson and Steve Minor, who were previously convicted, were given five years each. All five are said to be from St. Louis.

Mrs. Potillo, an aged woman, testified that Bisson struck her on the head with a revolver and Callahan looted the cash register. The two men who entered the store and three others escaped in a waiting automobile but were captured the next day.

FREE LANCE RACE BY LA FOLLETTE LIKELY

Senator Expects Developments to Force Him Into Presidential Contest as Independent.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Senator La Follette expects that developments at the Republican national convention will compel him to run for the presidency as an independent candidate. He has made no such public statement, but his friends intimate he has concluded this is the only way he can effectively combat the reactionary tendencies of his party, which he believes will nominate President Coolidge.

Heretofore Senator La Follette has contented himself with fighting in the convention, with his own State delegation back of him, and when the convention has nominated the usual standpatter, he has gone home and let nature take its course. From this the Republican leaders have evolved the philosophy that the Wisconsin firebrand need not be taken seriously; that his Republican label was his dearest asset and that he would never bolt. He did not even go out with Roosevelt in 1912.

According to those supposed to be in his confidence, La Follette will make no effort to win delegates to the Republican convention except from his own State, though he will not, of course, discourage the efforts of his friends in the Dakotas, Minnesota and other states where the radical movement has gained headway. But if the Republicans nominate Mr. Coolidge he will go to the country and by petition seek to get on the ticket as an independent in Kansas, Oregon, Washington and perhaps Michigan and Texas.

This is believed to be the explanation of his declining to file on the Farmer-Labor ticket in South Dakota after the proposal convention had voted for him as against Henry Ford.

States He Would Carry.
As an independent in the presidential election, La Follette would carry Wisconsin and North Dakota certainly, Montana probably, would have an excellent chance in Minnesota, and a lock-in in all the other northwestern states.

The plan revives the talk of a possibility of throwing the election into the House of Representatives, for if La Follette should carry five or six states and the Democrats should fail to carry New York and New Jersey, it is easy to figure a situation that would leave the electoral college so divided that no candidate would have a majority.

This would ultimately make the Senate the deciding body, for the equal division in half a dozen state delegations in the House would prevent the election of a President there. The Senate, which does not vote by states, would elect the Vice President, who thereon would become President.

More probably would it insure the election of the Democratic candidate for the presidency, for practically all the electoral votes La Follette might get are from Republican states.

There will be some difficulty in the Wisconsin Senator's getting on the ballot. The presidential electors are technically state officers and the state laws as to independent nominations obtain. In Minnesota, for example, 2,000 signatures to a petition would put in the field 12 presidential electors bracketed for La Follette.

New Menace to Coolidge.

The development, if it turns out to be more than a threat, is the most menacing thing that has happened to the Coolidge prospects since those prospects brightened with the launching of the Mellon tax plan. The Democrats think that today marks the zenith of Coolidge and that from now on his will be a troubled road.

The Indiana situation was discussed at the White House yesterday. There was a conference participated in by Senator Watson, National Committeeman Keating and State Chairman Walk, all from Indiana; William M. Butler, Coolidge's campaign manager, and the President. It was expected that out of this would come the renouncing of a favorite son candidacy by the Senator and his boarding the Coolidge band wagon.

Postmaster-General New heard about it and hurried to the White House. Whatever concerns the political fortunes of Watson is of consequence to his political enemy. There are matters of patronage and State leadership at stake and it was perhaps the advent of New that broke up the party.

At all events it broke up, and Watson said the conference was not "conclusive." The pow-wow is to go on today when the abnegation of Senator Watson is expected.

Republican Indiana, of course, is all shot to pieces by the New-Watson vendetta, the indictment of Gov. McCray and the Ku Klux implications.

Former Official Sentenced.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Jan. 19.—S. M. Souder, former County Treasurer of Lincoln County, recently convicted on a charge of arson, growing out of the burning last April 29 of the old county courthouse here, yesterday was sentenced to serve from 15 to 20 years in prison. About $19,000 worth of certificates of deposits, around $120,000 in cash and approximately $10,000 worth of bonds were found to be missing from the Treasurer's safe after the fire.

Are You a Tired Out Housewife?

Many people do not realize that the most exhausting of all work is housework and the care of children. Many a woman who should be in the prime of life finds her strength gone, her nerves quivering and is weak, worn out and run down with pale, thin, watery blood from the strain of housework.

In such cases, what you need is something to get more iron into your blood. Nourish iron contains iron like the iron in spinach, lettuce and eggs, but it is the iron in your blood that counts. It is the iron in your blood that gives you energy and endurance. It is the iron in your blood that gives you the strength to do your housework and care of your children. It is the iron in your blood that gives you the strength to live and thrive. It is the iron in your blood that gives you the strength to be a happy, healthy, and successful housewife.

FORECLOSURE SUIT ON $30,300,000 U. R. ISSUE

Action Brought by St. Louis Union Trust Co. on General 4 Per Cent Bonds.

A foreclosure proceeding against the United Railways properties, the most inclusive of five such suits filed thus far, was filed today in the Federal Court, by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. as trustee for the $30,300,000 issue of general 4 per cent bonds.

Before the filing of the proceeding, leave was asked and obtained from the Court, this being necessary because the United Railways property is in the hands of a receiver appointed by the Court.

The foreclosure suit follows the Attorney Rhodes E. Cave and George H. Williams, states that the mortgage securing the issue of bonds is in default, and that the holders of more than 25 per cent of the outstanding bonds had authorized the instituting of the proceeding.

It is stated that the mortgage of the general 4s is in default by reason of default in the underlying bonds.

The foreclosing suit follows the recent refusal of Judge Faris to authorize an issue of $4,100,000 receiver's certificates, to meet interest on bonds and to take up maturing bonds. The petition cites this refusal, and states that as a default on the underlying bonds has been caused, the mortgage securing the general 4s is in default. The general 4s are designated as maturing July 1, 1934, but this term is dependent on the payment or extending of underlying bonds when due.

Attorney Henry S. Priest, representing the United Railways corporation, recently asked the Court to consolidate all pending foreclosure proceedings, and Judge Faris said he would set a date for hearing arguments on this consolidation. The largest of the previous cases was that filed by the St. Louis & Suburban bondholders.

The list of property secured by the general 4s mortgage was filed with the petition. It shows all the divisions of the United Railways except those which were formerly the St. Louis & Suburban lines. Some of the lines are designated by names now unfamiliar, such as the Northern Central (now Natural Bridge), and the Union (now Lee) lines.

IF SKIN BREAKS OUT AND ITCHES APPLY SULPHUR

Just the moment you apply Men-the-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place. Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness. You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Men-the-Sulphur at any drug store.

PRESBYTERIAN APPEAL FOR FREE THOUGHT

150 Clergymen Sign Manifesto Condemning Action of General Assembly.

By the Associated Press.
BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Right of the Presbyterian clergy to exercise liberty of thought and teaching is maintained in an affirmation signed by 150 Presbyterian ministers in all parts of the United States and issued by a committee headed by the Rev. Murray Shipley Howland of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church. "We do not desire liberty to go beyond the teachings of evangelical christianity," the affirmation said. "But we maintain that it is our constitutional right and our Christian duty within these limits to exercise liberty of thought and teaching, that we may effectively spread the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Saviour of the world."

The committee was formed and the affirmation prepared, Dr. Howland said, as the result of action taken by the Presbyterian general assembly at Indianapolis last May in connection with the Harry Emerson Fosdick case. The 119 signers, he said, had been chosen as representatives after consultations extending over several months. "As chairman of the committee drawing up the affirmation, I understand the spirit of those who wrote it," he said. "It is not an attack by liberals on conservatives. It is signed by both conservatives and liberals who believe the church is inclusive enough to keep as ministers all those who accept the Deity of Christ with its implications."

Plea for Tolerance.
"The affirmation shows the liberty accorded by the constitution of the church and it prays for tolerance and unity for those who may differ in various doctrines, but who are united in their devotion to Christ and the fulfillment of His purposes, of establishing the Kingdom of God."

"While it is constitutional for any general assembly to 'bear testimony against error in doctrine,' yet such testimony is without binding authority. . . . From this provision of our constitution it is evident . . . that the assumption that any general assembly has authoritatively declared what the church believes and teaches is groundless."

"The general assembly of 1923," the affirmation continues, "in asserting that 'doctrines contrary to the standards of the Presbyterian church' have been preached in the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church of New York City, virtually pronounced a judgment against this church. . . . The general assembly acted in this case without giving hearing to the parties concerned."

"Thus it did not conform to the procedure in such cases contemplated by our book of discipline and, what is more serious, it, in effect, condemned a Christian without using the method of conference, patience and love enjoined on us by Jesus Christ. We object to the action of the general assembly in this case as being out of keeping with the law and spirit of our church."

Reference to Doctrines.

"The general assembly of 1923 expressed the opinion concerning five doctrinal statements that each one 'is an essential doctrine of the word of God and our standards.' . . . Furthermore, this opinion of the general assembly wants to commit our church to certain theories concerning the inspiration of the Bible, and the incarnation, the atonement, the resurrection, and the continuing life and supernatural power of our Lord, Jesus Christ."

"Some of us regard the particular theories contained in the deliverance of the general assembly as satisfactory explanations of these facts and doctrines. But we are united in believing that these are not the only theories allowed by the Scriptures and our standards as explanations of these facts and doctrines of our religion."

Henry Van Dyke, moderator of the general assembly of 1902, and President John Orier Hibben of Princeton University are among the signers.

SEEK U. S. WOMAN KIDNAPED IN CHINA

Officials of Pekin Legation Urge Arrest of Bandits Who Attacked Missionaries.

By the Associated Press. PEKIN, Jan. 10.—The American legation here has been unable to gain any trace of Mrs. Julian Killen of Northfield, Minn., the American missionary, kidnaped by Chinese bandits when they raided Tsao Yang, Hupeh Province, a few days ago.

Two legation officials, Maj. John Magruder, military attaché, and Capt. Woodrow Woodbridge, language officer, have proceeded to the vicinity of the kidnaping to impress upon the local Chinese officials the necessity of greater activity in pursuing the bandits. Their immediate destination is Honan Province, for although the kidnaping was committed in Hupeh, the bandits have been able to cross the provincial boundary and now are in Honan. This Province is in the immediate jurisdiction of Wu Pei-fu, one of China's most powerful military men.

It is understood the two officers will begin their mission by making strong representations to Wu.

Hoffs Now in Hospital.

There have been no definite reports as to the condition of Prof. and Mrs. Bernard Hoffs, also American missionaries, who were wounded when Mrs. Killen was kidnaped, except that Mrs. Hoffs' wound is in the shoulder. Prof. Hoffs, it is said, was shot through the lung. Both are in a hospital at Siangyangfu, near Tsao Yang.

First details of the wounding of Prof. and Mrs. Hoffs and of the kidnaping of Mrs. Killen were given today when a description of the bandit raid on the mission at Tsao Yang, Hupeh Province, several days ago, was forwarded to a member of the same mission here by the Chinese cook of the Hoffs.

Five or six bandits descended on the mission compound where the missionaries, having been reassured by the Magistrate that they were safe from molestation, were sleeping, according to the cook's story.

Schoolboy Slain by Bandit.

It happened about 3 o'clock in the morning," the cook said. "I heard one of the bandits ask a schoolboy where the foreigners were and the boy said he did not know, whereupon the bandit shot and killed him. Previously a soldier had asked the Hoffs and the others to go to a nearby camp for safety, but, fearing the soldiers were mutinous, they refused.

"I had hidden and at daylight I crept to the rear of the foreigners' house and found the Hoffs on a bed. Prof. Hoffs was suffering and taking water with a spoon. Mrs. Hoffs had been shot in the shoulder but could speak and asked for bread and then for medicine, which I couldn't find. The bandits seized me and compelled me to follow and serve them.

"Two days later I saw Mistress Killen on horseback, but I was not permitted to speak to her."

The cook escaped later and proceeded to Tungpeh, Honan Province.

SAYS LINES IN PLAY CAUSED WIFE TO LEAVE HIM

Hungarian Painter, However, Loses His Damage Suit Against Actress and Producers.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Although laying the disruption of his home to ridicule which followed the alleged slanderous use of the name "Pogany Willie" by Pania Marinoff, an actress, and Charles Pogany, Hungarian painter, was unable to convince a jury yesterday that his hurt was worth $200,000.

Pogany's suit was against Miss Marinoff, who spoke the lines he held to be offensive, and Charles Frohman, Inc., and David Belasco, producers of "Call the Doctor," the play in which the lines appeared. The jury held that the lines had not been slanderous and refused damages.

Pogany, who said he was married and father of an 11-year-old son, declared his wife left him because of the lines in the play, which, he asserted, were:

"I have a sweetheart, Pogany Willie. The first time he see me, he love me, with one look, dear boy. Just now he have to work. His pictures he do not yet sell. But I sent him a little money. He pay me back when we marry—maybe. Pogany Willie is not true to me. Money I give him all the time and he blow it on American girl."

charging illegal practice of medicine. He calls himself a "Swedish masseur." Warrants were served on three other practitioners, W. L. Leinard, chiropractor; R. H. Stine, and C. D. Ruberik, a foot surgeon. Dr. Jensen and the other three men are accused of accepting fees and practicing medicine without State licenses.

DEMOCRATIC SENATORS SAY MELLON IS TRYING TO MAKE IT EASIER FOR RICH

Secretary, in Meantime, Prepares Attack on Their Bill to Show It Would Not Free Capital for Industry.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Secretary Mellon is preparing to make public a set of figures to support his contention and that of President Coolidge, that the Democratic bill for the Treasury tax bill will not free capital for industrial enterprises.

It was stated at the Treasury that the reaction to the proposal presented by Representative Garner and other Democrats of the Ways and Means Committee had been favorable to the Mellon recommendations. A large majority of the reports from business people, big and little, is said to indicate the popularity of the original proposition.

As demands for the Mellon bill continue to pour in, the temper of the Democratic leaders becomes warmer and warmer. An outbreak in the Senate yesterday led by Senators Ashurst of Arizona, Jones of New Mexico, Simmons of North Carolina and Copeland of New York, culminated in a debate. These Senators charged that Mellon was trying to make it easier for the rich men of the nation.

Says Democrats Are Split.

A statement issued by the Republican National Committee asserted that the Democrats were split on the Mellon bill and the history of the party in 1896 on the free silver issue was about to be repeated. It predicted that the effort would be made to oust Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, for branding the supporters of the Mellon tax measure as conspirators in behalf of predatory interests. Leading Democrats have been urged to give their reasons for fixating the maximum tax rate at 44 per cent instead of the 25 fixed by Secretary Mellon. They assert that within a few days, when they obtain some figures from Treasury experts they will give a complete answer that will be satisfactory to unbiased minds.

Farm Bloc Tax Bill.

Representative L. J. Dickinson, Progressive Republican of Iowa and leader of the farm bloc in the House, introduced a tax bill. This makes the fourth bill to be presented to reduce tax levies.

Senator Ashurst assailed the Saturday Evening Post for its editorial support of the Mellon bill in an article entitled "Cut Yourself a Piece of Cake." He said this reaction improperly on Congress and that this publication was cutting its own cake by low postage rates.

Jones quoted from the World Almanac to show who is the richest man in the country, then launched a broadside against the failure of the Mellon plan to mention excess profits taxes or taxes on undistributed profits.

Senator Simmons of North Carolina challenged the argument that high business taxes would drive empty securities. He estimated that half the earnings of business corporations are undistributed and thereby avoid taxation. Jones said that estimate after studying the subject.

Under the present law, Jones declared, "nobody but a financial idiot would adopt a method of tax exemption for evading taxation. There is no reason in the world why under a definite law should not organize a corporation and simply withdraw from that in dividends enough to pay his actual living expenses and let the balance remain in the corporation and pay only 12 1/2 per cent."

Exempted as Ghost.

Jones said the tax exempt issue was raised up here as a show, and estimated the buyer of tax exempt securities paid 21 per cent to the State or municipality issuing the bond by reason of the premium on the price.

Ashurst said he agreed with the Mellon advocacy of a constitutional amendment to stop issuance of further tax-exempt securities, but added:

"I am utterly astounded that he should be making a drive with the most insidious and most engaging and most alluring propaganda that I have ever seen since I have been in public life for a reduction in the taxes of men of great wealth, while at the same time urging a major reduction in the taxes of men of modest means."

His proposition is one sided. His plan leaves to his own benefit and those of his class, I do not speak of him with an envy of any kind, but it will become a man who conducts a furious propaganda when it means $500,000 a year to his own pocket and $45,000,000 additional revenue that is going to be retained by those of large fortunes."

Senator Jones cited figures that the Ford Co. made profits of $125,000,000 last year and expected to make $200,000,000 this year. Urging that Ford retains this money in his company for expansions, Jones said:

"Under this law which Mr. Mellon sponsors, Mr. Ford will not only

SPIRITUAL HEALING RECOMMENDED BY ANGLICAN CHURCH

Committee, However, Declares Emphatically It Cannot Be Substituted for Medicine or Surgery.

FAITH DECLARED AN IMPORTANT FACTOR

As Far as Physical Healing Goes, Commission Says, Faith Works Irrespective of Grounds It Is Based on

By ARTHUR E. MANN.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The report of the Church of England Committee on Spiritual Healing, a summary of the most important points of which has already been cabled to the Post-Dispatch, contains recommendations and suggestions regarding the value of such treatment and the methods to be employed.

Although the report emphatically declares spiritual healing cannot be substituted for medicinal or surgical treatment, it is recommended as a necessary and valuable complement to the work of the doctor.

In other words, the report enumerates the three ways of healing the body: "First, material, as surgery, drugs, diet, etc.; second, physical, as suggestion and different forms of mental analysis; third, devotional and sacramental." The report then argues: "Spiritual healing may be said to be that which makes use of all or any of these factors, in reliance to God, though in popular use the term is inaccurately confined to the last. As in all these methods of healing, faith is or may be an important element contributing powerfully to the cure, but it must be noted that as far as purely physical healing goes faith works irrespective of the grounds on which it rests."

Faith of Primary Importance.

"In the third line of approach, where something more than physical healing is in view, the character and trustworthiness of the faith are of primary importance. Discussing its attitude toward the subject of spiritual healing, the committee says:

"The line of approach with which we are more immediately concerned is devotional and sacramental. Here the appeal is devoted to God as the immediate of all life and health without the use of any material means. It is an appeal which has taken various forms as in Christian Science and kindred doctrines; within the church it has occasioned revival of systems of healing based on the redemptive work of our Lord."

They all spring from belief in the fundamental principle that the power to exercise spiritual healing is taught by Christ to be the natural heritage of Christian people who are living in fellowship with God and as part of the ministry of Christ through his body, the church. They rest upon a definite doctrine as to the nature of disease, the object aimed at in its treatment, and the result which should be expected.

Strengthening of Whole Life.

"With regard to the ultimate end, spiritual healing aims definitely at the purifying and strengthening of the whole life, especially spiritual life as the center of personality."

"Restoration of the whole man, which is the goal of spiritual healing, will often include his physical healing, but this is only a fraction of the work aimed at and will not

LABOR WILL NOT PLAY THE FOOL, SAYS SNOWDEN

Whatever Program May Develop, Party Has Welfare of Nation at Heart, Says Leader.

By courtesy of the London Daily Herald, organ of the British Labor party, the Post-Dispatch and New York World are able to publish the following article by Philip Snowden, who is reported to have accepted the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Labor cabinet. Mr. Snowden is said to be at work already on a new tax schedule.

BY PHILIP SNOWDEN.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Curiosity as to what a Labor Government will do is by no means confined to sympathizers and well wishers of the Labor party. Something of the conservatism reign in aristocratic and financial circles.

A real Countess frankly asked me the other day (she had been reading the Morning Post) if it was true that the first thing a Labor Government was going to do was to cut the throats of every aristocrat and steal all their property. I tried to pacify her by assuring that the Labor Government had not yet decided what its first administrative act would be, but if it should decide to realize her fears, it would be able to plead a good many historical precedents on the part of her ancestors. She went away happy.

The capitalist press is touching lower depths than ever it has reached before in rousing hate and passion and class prejudice. It cares nothing for the interests of the country and would gladly see it ruined if it could destroy the Labor party.

Will Not Play the Fool.

Its frantic outbursts may frighten a few timid people, but the most remarkable thing about the anti-Labor Government campaign is the little effect it is having on the public mind generally. We cannot expect from our political opponents a hearty welcome to the Labor Government, but the sober sense of the nation is willing to accept it.

One thing is certain amid a great deal of uncertainty as to what the Labor Government will do. It will not play the fool. Labor has as much sense as the realists of the country at heart as any other party and it has enough common sense not to attempt the impossible.

It will face facts and realize the limitations of its power. It will be the exclusive preoccupation of the healer."

In summing up its conclusion, the report says:

"The church must sanction methods of religious treatment of bodily diseases, but in doing so must give full weight to scientific discoveries of those who are investigating the interrelation of mind and body. Much good might be done by appointment of a permanent committee of clergy, doctors and psychologists to advise the authorities of the church on these matters."

Two of the doctors on the mixed committee of 20 dissented from the recommendation of the use of unctio—the anointing of a patient with oil by a priest—as one of the methods of spiritual healing. Otherwise, the report is unanimous.

$21,000,000 Chicago "L" Merger.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—A formal agreement of consolidation of three of Chicago's four elevated railroads into a new $21,000,000 corporation was filed with the County Recorder today. The new corporation will have a single board of managing directors, including Samuel Insull, Britton H. Budd, John H. Gulick and R. Floyd Clinch of Chicago, and A. G. Hoyt of New York.

Ballot for Voting on Prize Peace Plan

The American Peace Award Jury, created by Edward Bok, invites the public to vote on the plan which the Jury of Awards has selected out of the 22,000 submitted, as presenting the best practicable plan by which the United States may cooperate with other nations, looking toward the prevention of war. For the convenience of its readers, the Post-Dispatch prints this ballot.

THE PLAN IN BRIEF

PROPOSER

1. That the United States shall immediately enter the Permanent Court of International Justice, under the conditions stated by Secretary Hughes and President Harding in February, 1923.

2. That without becoming a member of the League of Nations as at present constituted, the United States shall offer to extend its present cooperation with the League and participate in the work of the League as a body of moral counsel under conditions which

1. Substitute moral force and public opinion for the military and economic force originally implied in Articles XV and XVI.

2. Safeguard the Monroe Doctrine.

3. Accept the fact that the United States will assume no obligations under the Treaty of Versailles except by act of Congress.

4. Propose that membership in the League should be opened to all nations.

5. Provide for the continuing development of international law.

KLAN DECIDES TO TAKE ACTIVE PART IN STATE POLITICS

Officer of St. Joseph "Klavern" Reveals Plans to Elect Candidates Friendly to Order in Missouri.

WILL ENTER LOCAL CAMPAIGNS, ALSO

200,000 Votes Now and 400,000 by Election Day, Including Those of Women, Claimed.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 10.—A definite decision by the Ku Klux Klan to participate actively in Missouri politics this year has been disclosed here by Dr. William M. Campbell, "exalted cyclops" of the St. Joseph Klan. The first public announcement of the decision was in the publication in the official Klan paper here of the address of Dr. Campbell to the Klan at its installation in office Dec. 27. In an interview, Dr. Campbell has given further details.

The announced purpose is to attempt to defeat candidates to whom the Klan objects and to attempt to elect candidates considered friendly to the order. It is the intention to take part in both local and State campaigns.

The means whereby these ends are to be sought have not been definitely shaped yet, according to Campbell. But the Missouri Klan district officers, with jurisdiction over the 60-odd klans in this State, will hold a conference within a few days to outline the strategy.

Recalls Fate of A. P. A.

"We have been forced into politics in self-defense," Campbell said. "Here in St. Joseph and elsewhere we have been threatened with obstruction. We have been told that we could not hold meetings or march in parades, and we have faced the danger that the mouths of our speakers might be closed by injunction. So what can we do but get into politics? We didn't want to do it, for I for one know very well the danger attached to such action by an order like ours. Participation in politics brought the death of the A. P. A. movement. But we have to take the chance."

"We probably will not undertake to nominate klansmen. We have found it more advisable to get behind nonklansmen who are sympathetic to our cause. We have assured that the Klan will be in local and State politics to elect the candidates who get our endorsement and to defeat those who are not satisfactory to us."

Defies Old Party Conventions.

"I doubt if we will ask either of the old parties to put friendly planks in their platforms. But they had better not adopt unfriendly declarations."

"Here in St. Joseph, we have shown what can be done. We supported Ernest L. Jones for State Senator from the Second (Buchanan) District and he was elected. We supported George E. Melnich for Mayor of St. Joseph and he was elected. The city of St. Joseph proposed a contract for the purchase of electric current from a local public utility. We opposed that and it was defeated. The Board of Education here proposed a bond issue of $3,000,000. We fought it, and it was defeated. We are against Melnich now, and we will be in the spring municipal and school board campaign, and we expect to win."

Claims E. S. Senator Mayfield.

"Nationally, we already have one United States Senator—Mayfield of Texas—and the Republicans know that they dare not unseat him, as you will see."

"Unless things are straightened around materially in the meantime, it is virtually certain that an American party will be in the field in 1928 with a third candidate for President. In such a movement we would have the support of other organizations friendly to us, even as we have the backing of other bodies here in St. Joseph this spring if it becomes necessary to file a citizens' ticket for the Board of Education in case the old parties do not nominate candidates satisfactory to us."

Expects 400,000 Votes.

"I do not say just what our strength in Missouri will be. I think a conservative estimate today would be 200,000 votes, including the women, of whom we have a great many in auxiliary organizations. We expect to have doubled our strength before balloting time."

Opposes Both Parties.

Campbell, in his inaugural speech to the Klan here last week, was quoted in the official Klan newspaper, in part, as follows: "My advice to you is not to promise anything to any political aspirant until this Klan has decided—whether

WILSON NOT TO COMMENT ON BOK PRIZE PEACE PLAN

Dissatisfied Contestants Would Compel Jury to Read All of 22,000 Plans Submitted.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Woodrow Wilson has announced through his secretary that he will not make any comment concerning his attitude toward the Bok Peace Plan, according to a Washington dispatch appearing in the New York Times. The statement on behalf of the former President was in the form of a reply to an inquiry from the newspaper's Washington correspondent.

The reply was as follows: "Mr. Wilson directs me to say that he has no comment to make on the plan to which you refer, nor shall he have any comment to make on any other plans of a similar character. Cordially yours, John Randolph Bolling, secretary to Mr. Wilson."

Formal action for a court order to compel the Bok Peace Award Jury to read all of the 22,000 plans submitted by contestants may be started in a few days, according to Frank Hendrick, New York attorney. Mr. Hendrick, whose office has become a center for contestants who assert their plans were not fairly considered, said tonight that he would be taken by the dissatisfied contestants.

Ethel Root, chairman of the jury of award, will answer the attacks and criticism which have been made. It was announced today by Miss Esther Everett Lape, secretary of the policy committee.

Amundsen Plans Flight to North Pole Before August

Declares Expedition Should Start in May to Get Benefit of Polar Weather—May Carry Three Airplanes.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 10.—In an interview with the Post-Dispatch and New York World correspondent here, Roald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, revealed his plans for his forthcoming exploration of the North Pole by airplane.

"We must start early in May," he began. "To get the benefit of the best polar weather. It is difficult to say just when the actual flight itself will begin. That depends on the weather, but as we have an excellent radio station at Spitzbergen, it will be easy to get weather reports from this side of the globe and when conditions in Alaska and around Spitzbergen are favorable we will start."

"We expect to use a ship of not more than 600 tons for the first part of the trip—only large enough to provide sufficient room for an airplane on deck. We probably will have three or four machines."

"The flight should be made early in summer, for in August the polar storms begin and as a rule there is terrific sleet. But one could live in the Arctic ice for 90 years without being able to foretell the least bit about weather conditions."

"The expedition of 1922 failed because we were late in starting, and in 1923 because the underbody of our airplane buckled."

"I do not think there is any possibility of finding traces of Peary's North Pole expedition. The reason Scott found the Norwegian flag at the South Pole was because that area is solid land, while around the North Pole everything is adrift. What Peary deposited—flags, instruments, etc., were carried away long ago by ice."

"No, I don't think we will find Cook's records there. You will have to look for them in Texas."

"I expect it will take 20 to 35 hours to fly the 2000 miles from Alaska to Spitzbergen."

"We are now about to negotiate for purchase of motors and planes. The latter must be equipped to land on either water or ice. Each machine will carry two men, a pilot and an observer. The planes will have dual control. They will carry as little provisions as possible and as much gasoline as they can lift. In Wainwright, Alaska, I have still large deposits of gasoline left from last year."

"I do not want the public to treat this polar flight as a sporting adventure. We desire to make geographical investigations and observations on and of a million square miles around the pole. We also will make a film of the trip. As soon as we have finished flying we will broadcast the story by wireless."

"The exploration is being privately financed, but we will carry American post cards at $1 each and Scandinavian cards for 5 kroner. This, we hope, will help meet expenses."

It will be in the near future—just the stand it will take on the political question of 1924. A political committee will be appointed, and its recommendations will be subject to your decisions. We recognize no difference between Republicans and Democrats. A thorough examination will prove that no differences actually exist. The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan believe that one party is as good as and as bad as the other, and that both are equally unworthy. We are trained for the purpose of controlling office and the perquisites of office, and that special political privilege is the life blood of both political parties."

"The Klan believes that it is necessary to educate and influence American citizens to vote for the best candidates, regardless of parties, in every political contest, and that it is its duty to inform members to furnish them with full and specific information about all candidates and issues, in order to permit them to form intelligent individual opinions."

Politicians Have Straddled.

So Missouri faces the problem which caused storms in Texas and Oklahoma within the last year. Missouri politicians have foreseen the storm cloud for months. Congressional Harry H. Hays of St. Louis, for example, has made numerous speeches throughout the State against the Klan. The Democratic State Committee in St. Louis several months ago tried to deal with the impending situation, but only in a half-hearted manner. The Republican State Committee at Jefferson City little more than a month ago dodged the issue completely. Chairman Louis J. Becker of the Republican committee of St. Louis took to that meeting an anti-Klan resolution, but was told in effect to "forget it." So he did not even present it."

The favorite tactics of most politicians, when confronted with Antislavery League, labor unions or similar organized minorities which in previous campaigns have demonstrated their strength, have been to walk to fence whenever possible.

Opportunism Charged.

That feat will be increasingly difficult this time, if the Klan threat materializes. What actual strength the Klan has in this or other States is impossible to determine in advance, because of the secrecy in which the order is enshrouded.

In Buchanan County, of which St. Joseph is the county seat, there are six klans, one here and five in small communities. In the recent election of Klan officers, in which Dr. Campbell for the third time was elected cyclops, 3010 votes were cast by members of the St. Joseph body. Yet the Klan claims to control 12,000 to 15,000 votes in the county, in which 33,727 votes were cast for President in 1920.

In Jackson County, which contains Kansas City, the Klan also has participated in politics previously, having supported Glen L. Bruner for Circuit Judge in November, 1922. Bruner, though defeated, received 13,353 votes.

Disinterested political observers here are inclined to regard the klansmen as beneficiaries of an unusually shrewd opportunistic policy. For in each instance, it is said, the Klan climbed into the band wagon after results had been practically assured.

Klansmen, of course, resent this charge and assert that they shaped results instead of merely participating in the celebration of victory.

Already at Work for Primaries.

"We are going to be re-elected with all the experience gained with the experience of United States Senator James A. Reed here in Jackson County in November, 1922, is the best evidence of our strength. We fought Reed, who here in his home county, where he always has been invincible, got only 58,432 votes, against 59,903 for Brewster, Republican, who was not an especially strong candidate."

"We realize that political battles are won and lost in the primaries, so we have gone to work early."

That the Kansas City Klan really has gone to work in preparation for the municipal campaign here was indicated by the fact that ward and precinct maps were visible in considerable numbers in Klan headquarters, which are maintained in a large suite in the Continental Building. While the correspondence was waiting to see Allison several men came in and made inquiries as to the locations of their home precincts, ostensibly to get ready to participate in ward organization work.

Springs Hospital Ready This Year.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The 125-bed tuberculosis hospital at Excelsior Springs, Mo., which figured in the Veterans' Bureau investigation, is now 16 per cent completed and will be ready for use June 1, this year. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, stated in a report yesterday giving the status of the bureau's hospital construction program.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLAT- FORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Bridge Issue.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IN your issue of Jan. 5 W. Palmer (Clarkson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, commends your bridge editorial of Dec. 14 and 15 last. He stated the bridge issue eclipses the entire bond issue in importance. I heartily agree with him there. He harmoniously agrees with Mr. Carter, Mr. Wilkinson, et al., and the too much to spend on the northeast approach. Is it possible that these men, acknowledged to be men of keen business vision, can fail to see what a wonderful bargain this is for St. Louis? They propose, not to sell the bridge, merely to grant a privilege to use it. Since its use is all that can be derived from it, that means to give it away. I would rather give away my park, school and water systems. With a free bridge saving us $15,000,000 yearly in tolls, we could buy them back. Think of it. We get our $5,000,000 back in 100 days, which is almost 400 per cent per annum on $5,000,000. A marvelous investment. We still retain our bridge to sell for $150,000,000 to some 10 percent and use the proceeds for two more $57,000,000 bond issues.

Young men of St. Louis, of whom I am one, do we propose to tolerate T. R. A. chains, shackles, whips and what not, as did our fathers and grandfathers? Do we propose to stand idly by and watch a monument representing 22 years of tireless and brilliant effort on the part of our fathers, battered away? Would Detroit, Cleveland or Los Angeles stand for this? I say no. Neither shall we. HARRY BRINKOP.

Teachers' Arduous Preparation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE course of study at Harris Teachers' College has been extended one more year, taking effect in September. This means that a girl who wishes to become a teacher must spend four years in high school, two years at Teachers' College and one year apprenticeship. This means seven years instead of six, together with eight or nine years in the grammar school.

It doesn't seem fair to make such a rule affecting those already in high school who entered with the intention of going to Teachers' College for two and not three years. People of means are not obliged to become teachers, while one year more means a long time to skimp and save to send daughter through Teachers' College.

And, secondly, when the matter of spending public money is involved, why burden the now overburdened taxpayer with the extra expense to pay teachers, etc., for the extension of the said course? Have the taxpayers no voice in a matter where their children's future and happiness and taxes are vitally concerned? MRS. BRYCE, 6100 Berlin, Taxpayer.

Good Police Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FROM time to time I have seen the Police Department of St. Louis quite severely criticized in the columns of your valuable paper for lack of efficiency and success in locating and returning stolen automobiles to their owners. It has occurred to me that if all owners of stolen cars who have had their cars located and returned and returned promptly by the Police Department should report the facts to you and you should in turn publish them in your paper, the successful cases would so far outnumber the failures that the failures would not be noticed by the public.

Between 5 and 9 o'clock on the night of Jan. 2 my car was stolen from the street in the 3900 block Cote Brillante. I notified the Police Department about 9:15 the same night and with a feeling of confidence that the car would be returned to me, went to bed and slept. Before noon the next day the Police Department notified me by phone that my car had been found in the county, taken charge of by the police, towed into St. Louis and was under guard of an officer of the department awaiting my arrival to take charge of it. The officers who rendered this service would not even accept a cigar from me—stating, "That is our business and we are glad to do it."

Let us "render unto Caesar that which is Caesar's."

Field Clerk, Q. M. Corps, Jefferson Barracks.

Illegal Parking.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHILE waiting for a Broadway car at Olive this evening about 5:20 o'clock I noticed quite a bit of confusion among the people trying to board south-bound cars. This confusion being caused by a machine parked between the corner and a post marked "Do not park between this post and corner," also parked in such a position as to completely block the space reserved as a safety zone for south-bound automobile traffic.

I think a person who so endangers the lives of their less fortunate brothers and sisters should be brought to justice, his machine impounded and he be forced to ride street cars for one month, a second offense should cost him 25 per cent of the value of his machine. If our police officers will do nothing about this, who will?

I. WONDER.

HOW KLANISM WORKS.

The chief prohibition agent in Illinois, W. W. Anderson of Chicago, has wisely prohibited general raiding of bootleggers in Williamson County. Reports from Williamson County indicate that there is a state of incipient civil war there on account of the wholesale raids in which lawless outrages are charged against members of the Ku Klux Klan under direction of S. Glenn Young, who claimed to have authority from Pittsburg, but whose official authority is disclaimed from Washington. Young, it appears, led from 400 to 600 men, admittedly klansmen, in wholesale raids on residents of the county under suspicion or charged with being dealers in or manufacturers of illicit liquor.

The invisible government attempted to supersede the legal officers of the law and to undertake the enforcement of laws according to their own will. The result is an outbreak of lawlessness and conflict which the Sheriff thought threatened the peace of the whole county, so he called in the State troops to put down disorder. There are charges by those who have been raided of theft, deadly assault, violence and all sorts of outrages. Sheriff Galligan himself charges that women were beaten up and other outrages perpetrated by Young and his henchmen. He charges also that the foundation of the movement for general raiding is racial, religious and social intolerance, hatred and prejudice. We need only quote the statement of Young the Ku Klux leader, to reporters, to show the danger of the interference of invisible government and volunteer law enforcement of that kind. He says:

This drive I am leading has the support of the lawabiding and peace-desiring people. Upon 30 minutes' notice I can gather 2000 men about me to do my bidding in this drive, and in two hours I can get 7000 from Williamson and Franklin counties, members of the Ku Klux Klan. I swear we have offered no violence in our raids, except in disarming bootleggers. The statement that we attacked women and children is a foolish lie.

Naturally, the lawless activities of the Klan under the guise of law enforcement has aroused the opposition of antiklansmen. It is alleged that the "Flaming Circle" now has a membership of 1700 ready to combat the klansmen.

The situation in Williamson County repeats the experience of other localities and illustrates what will happen everywhere if the Klan gets the upper hand. It is now threatening to get prosecutors to control and to elect the officers of Williamson County in order that it can pursue its intolerant and violent policies, unhampered by official interference or by legal punishment.

We do not doubt that there was law violation and crime in Williamson County, but the way to check these conditions and punish the perpetrators is through legally constituted officers, legal processes and the courts. There is no other way.

The triumph of the Klan and its policies throughout the United States would inevitably result in lawless violence, conflict and ultimately a state of practical civil war.

HENCEFORTH AND HERETOFORE.

There is confession as well as command in Mayor Kiel's order that "henceforth" there shall be no fronting permitted in police courts. "Henceforth" implies heretofore.

The Mayor's confession is not needed to establish the fact. It is matter of common knowledge that fronting has been common practice in police courts. It is an established custom to the continuance of which the present Judges and prosecutors have contributed perhaps not more than their predecessors.

It is a practice for which there is no possible justification or extenuation. Its basis is solely political, in the smallest, meanest sense of the word. Politicians have fronted for offenders and saved them from the consequences of their misdeeds on the sole ground that they are useful to the party in power. Other offenders, not useful to the party, have had to pay the penalty, though their misdeeds may have been less grievous. The thing was subversive in the highest degree of the interests of law and morality. Its worst effect, probably, has been the encouragement it has given law-breakers to continue breaking the law and to commit greater violations.

But now the Judges and prosecutors are to be taken aside and told that "henceforth" no fronting is to be permitted. It is a sorry spectacle. Judges and prosecutors called up and admonished to cease prostituting their offices to the purposes of politics. It is encouraging that there is to be a "henceforth." But it is humiliating that there is a heretofore.

SHIP DEALS IN THE DARK.

Ship subsidy was defeated by Congress. It has been enacted as concerns certain steamship companies on far more favorable terms by the Lasker-Farley Shipping Board administration. Farley having been Lasker's choice as his successor. Seven model liners, known as the "President" ships, were sold to a private company for less than any one of the ships cost the Government. More than $28,000,000 was paid the builders. The Shipping Board's sale price for the seven was $3,850,000. On another vessel the board spent $2,826,000 for improvements alone and then sold the complete outfit for $100,000! The deals were kept secret on the theory that to publish the facts would be to give an unfair advantage to the competitors of the buyers.

The public might have been prepared to allow for an unloading of Government ship property, obtained on war contracts, at drastically reduced prices. It cannot be reconciled to the secrecy of the deals on a hypocritical pretext. The sale of a ship plus $2,826,000 of Government improvements for $100,000 looks like nothing but barefaced robbery of the taxpayers.

While chairman of the Shipping Board Mr. Lasker never conducted himself like an agent of the Government. He gave the impression of an agent of the steamship companies boring from within the Government. His sole solicitude was not for the Government lines but for the private competitors of those lines. As the chief lobbyist for the ship subsidy bill he acted not for the Government but for the companies. The scandalous secret deals which have just been revealed by the Post-Dispatch and New York World confirm the impression made by the Lasker-Farley stewardship.

Congress, as proposed by Senator Fletcher, should make a thorough investigation of the Shipping Board deals. The most effective atonement the administration could make would be, first, to co-operate in revealing the whole truth.

MAKING FRIENDS FOR BOK PLAN.

The first irreconcilable gun has been fired on the floor of the Senate in opposition to the Bok award peace plan. The advocates of a rational foreign policy, on reading the Bok plan, were seized with a curiosity to know what the isolationists could say against its reasonableness and moderation. Their curiosity has not been relieved by Senator McCormick. He did not discuss the issues. He confined himself to sneering at the prize donor, at the judges, the advocates and the popular balloting, to quoting those who hailed it as a step towards the League and to making voluble assumption that the League is a malign foreign organization—with emphasis on the "foreign"—conspiring against the security and independence of the United States.

What is the Bok award peace plan? What does it commit us to? What, specifically, will it do to endanger the United States? If it will do nothing to strengthen the foundations of stabilized peace what will it do to weaken them? In short, what are its sins and shortcomings?

Senator McCormick's answer is that Elihu Root, who presided over the Bok award jury, once defended the notorious Tweed and more recently attempted to get the eighteenth amendment out of the Constitution; that the jury was packed by friends of the League of Nations; that Mr. Bok has been well advertised; that the editor of the New York Times is "a frenzied and frantic supporter of the League," and that news articles from Europe hail the plan as a big step toward the League. Then there are tears for fellow Senators who, "all of them, will resent the imputation that we here, who have lived through the trying times of reconstruction, will not seek to discharge our full duty in consideration of the protocol before the Foreign Relations Committee."

The Bok peace plan would have more last-ditch supporters were it less of a compromise with that unreasoning hatred of the irreconcilables which roars not only at commitments but friendly association, which anathematizes not only membership in the League but recognition of it as anything but a practical conspiracy. But the McCormick attitude, refusing to listen to reason, playing upon prejudices first aroused by misrepresentation in a bitter political campaign, throwing the reasoned efforts of sincere and public-spirited men into the mire of suspicion, will but stiffen the backbones of the friends of organized peace and turn passive sympathy to active support. Low-browism in foreign relations is reaching the end of its rope.

THE DISABLED CHILDREN'S SCHOOL.

It is, of course, desirable that the proposed school for disabled children be built without an unnecessary and lavish expenditure of the money raised from taxes. But nigardliness in providing for the school and its equipment would be out of keeping with the standard St. Louis citizens have set for their educational requirements. And if such nigardliness resulted in handicapping the school in its special field, the Board of Education would not be held blameless.

The Milligan plan for a school to cost $253,000 appears costly. But when it is considered that this is no ordinary school, but one to provide all the essentials for disabled children, including an isolation room, dental clinic, dressing room, general clinic, nurses' and physicians' room, masseur's room, plaster room and room for wheel chairs, rest and kindergarten room, and the usual toilets and offices—a combination of hospital and school—we can hardly expect to build and equip it for what it costs to build and equip an ordinary school. Generosity without waste should be the guide in creating this necessary addition to our educational system.

OBREGON IN THE GOLDEN SEAT.

Gratulations and probably unexpected aid from the United States has placed President Obregon of Mexico in a position from which it is improbable that the present rebellion can dislodge him. He has supplies of arms and ammunition assured if he can keep open his lines of communication to the north. His military base is the capital, a rich and prosperous city from which railways lead east and west to the two chief points of attack. Obregon himself is a veteran soldier with a shining reputation for skill and courage, a tremendous asset in Mexico.

With the assurance that the supplies of the rebels are not likely to be augmented, he can shift his troops from one front to the other with confidence. The attackers cannot maintain a successful war against such a mobile defense. The De la Huerta revolutionists will find the number of their friends is decreasing. They will scatter before the disapproving word from Washington with its obvious threat of American warships to support its favored Government.

Our activities in deciding for the Mexicans who shall rule them promises to be as effective as it is immoral.

"A CITIZEN OF FLORIDA."

Mr. Bryan has a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency. The name will presently be divulged, but for the time being the gentleman is vaguely described as "a citizen of Florida."

The public is not apt to be intrigued by Mr. Bryan's coy overture. It will more likely be bored. For this is an old, shopworn trick of Bryan's. He has worked it frequently. Invariably his choice has been a mediocrity. An aspirant of national stature with consequential claims for such high preferment has never had Bryan's endorsement. It may safely be ventured that the unknown soldier or civilian on whom Bryan now bestows the accolade of his approval belongs to the mute, inglorious Milton category.

Other things may safely be ventured. First, that the man whom Bryan is soon to propose for the Democratic nomination is not Mr. Bryan's choice. Second, that the man whom Mr. Bryan has in mind for the Democratic nomination for President is "a citizen of Florida," and his name is William Jennings Bryan.

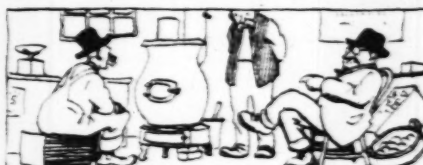

THAT OUGHT TO HOLD HIM FOR A WHILE.

JUST A MINUTE

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"I AM really sorry they sent troops to Marion, Ill. It must have been in complete forgetfulness of Marion's relation to the rest of the country that the Sheriff asked for them," Mr. Antwerp said.

"Here we had the bootleggers and the Ku Klux Klan, two as yet unproved but no doubt powerful elements of the American people, all drawn up for battle. Both sides were eager to see which should prevail. They are not too much to pay for some principle necessary to a continuing pursuit of happiness in Williamson County. We have needed a test of strength between the bootleggers and the Ku Klux Klan for some time, and when trouble started between them in Williamson County we had every reason to suppose that these antipathetic extremes, these two and opposing poles of life in the home of the free as most of us conceive it, had at last come to grips where they could fight it out."

"It was this beautiful story that the Sheriff of Williamson County ruined by asking for troops. It was this decision between two unlike and belligerent segments of the population, each believing itself necessary to the well-being of us all and both honing for action, that the chicken-hearted and uncomprehending Sheriff of Williamson County postponed from a time when we might have had it out and called the thing settled. It was nothing less than an outrage against the necessary processes of a progressive society."

"What a pity they could not have fought in the good old Herrin fashion! I feel sure the bootleggers would have won. The Ku Klux needs only a show of courage to send it scotching, and who among us are so well armed, so well supplied with money and so well organized as the bootleggers?" Mr. Antwerp asked.

Dr. Meiklejohn thinks it cannot be long before colleges in the United States will no longer be run by trustees who probably never went to college themselves, but will be managed by their faculties. However, we sincerely hope the doctor gets another chance before that educational millennium comes.

God help us to catch the right! Everybody in the tax debate admits that the poor pay their taxes.

One of our readers thinks Mr. Hoover cannot know how it is with the farmers when he says the country is prosperous, and he doubts if Mr. Hoover knows anything of that part of the country mostly populated by farmers. This is not according to all we have read about Mr. Hoover's youth. He was an orphan passed around by his relations all the way from Iowa to Oregon. He must have lived in that period with many uncles who were farmers, and likely knows something our reader does not know about a farmer's disposition to have something buried on the place. They have just found $1500 which a farmer out near La Plata, Mo., was banking underground in a sardine box.

Our belief that to require gratitude from people whose lives we have put them in an intolerable position is borne out by what one of our correspondents says about an old woman who, snatched from death before a street car on Eighteenth street on a recent cold morning, said to her rescuer: "Look out! You'll make me late to work!"

We don't know whose reservation for the Bok peace plan this is, but it comes by mail: Reservation 13—The inalienable right of American-born cows to eat grass, if any, shall not be infringed, save by act of Congress.

We vote aye on that.

Our notion of hell is Senator Lodge et al. wondering what the Democrats and the farm boys are going to get together on next.

Somebody must have reminded Venizelos of the old saying, "Beware of the Greeks bearing office."

The following is from a Memphis dispatch in our morning contemporary of yesterday: Announcement was made in Federal Court here this afternoon that the suit for $1,000,000 filed by the American Trust Co. of Nashville, Tenn., against the Piggy Wiggy Corporation had been settled by compromise and the suit withdrawn following a severe attack of acute indigestion Sunday night.

No doubt the suit had been eating at one of the high-price groceries.

Importation of Scotch tweeds into the United States is increasing, which shows you are wrong in assuming that Scotland sends us only Scotch.

From 1909 to 1919 the number of automobiles in the United States increased 1700 per cent and the long-distance jump for pedestrians, curb take-off, was lengthened 17 feet.

Wayne Wheeler says the best Christmas present we got was the one brought by prohibition, and we cheerfully agree that it was if you get anything.

Only a woman knows the secret of who won the Bok prize, so we can't be kept very long in the dark.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

COMMON COLDS.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

WITH cold war warnings there usually the warning against bad colds. Sudden changes of temperature have been fraught with "epidemic" of this common malady, and this and that advice is given to avoid sickness. Yet strange as it may seem, little is known about this common ailment. Not only are its causes, least definitely understood, but its treatment, and methods of treatment are gropings in the dark. Once it was supposed that the home must be hermetically sealed. When the fresh air exhausted, colds, stuffy rooms. It is not confined to just so the lungs are given fresh air. There are those who declare that colds are wrong and the only thing worth doing is to keep the body warm. An article in the Journal of the American Medical Association, dated Jan. 1, 1924, discusses the problem. It is skeptical of the theory and the contagiousness of colds. CATHOLIC CHURCH IN FRANCE GIVEN SAME STATUS AS IN U. S.

Religious Property to Be Entrusted to Diocesan Associations Under Control of Bishops.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—Although formal ratifications of the French Government's agreement to give the Catholic Church here the same status it has in the United States have not been exchanged, the new order is an accomplished fact. The arrangement permits Catholic clergy to occupy former church property under terms satisfactory to the Pope, although it does not restore the church to direct ownership. It simply modifies the original separation law of 1905.

Former church property will now be entrusted by the State to a few diocesan associations under control of Bishops appointed by the Vatican, instead of to numerous parishes, as was the case under control of a parish priest, independent of Rome, as originally provided.

Pope Pius at first wanted the Chamber of Deputies to consecrate the new status of the church by a formal vote. However, the French representative at the Vatican pointed out this would stir up debate and excite anti-clerical feeling, which already is aroused by the mere fact that Premier Poincare has dared deal with the Holy See at all.

Therefore the Premier has had three prominent jurists of the opinion that the new status of the church is legal. Then he had his Council of State pass favorably on it and finally asked Rome if it were satisfied.

BISHOP QUAYLE IN ST. LOUIS BEFORE GOING TO FLORIDA

Says Modernist-Fundamentalist Controversy Has Little Effect on Methodists.

Bishop William A. Quayle of the Methodist Episcopal Church is spending a few days in St. Louis yesterday on a visit to Florida, where he will stay several months, recuperating from a recent illness. He talked briefly with a Post-Dispatch reporter at general headquarters of the St. Louis area Methodist Episcopal Church, this morning. Among other things, he said that the modernist-fundamentalist controversy had not greatly affected his denomination. He said the Methodist Episcopal Church subscribed to some fundamental doctrines, but that these did not include all the dogmas generally credited to fundamentalism.

"We believe in the virgin birth of Christ," the Bishop said, "but we are not fundamentalists. We have our own faith and we believe in living and letting live. The controversy as to doctrinal matters does not seem important to me. I think it is largely smoke without much fire. Those disagreements as to faith bubble up every once in a while."

He talked with difficulty and showed the effect of his long sickness. His condition has improved considerably and he is now convalescent.

GIRLS! USE LEMON TO WHITEN SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also to soothe red, rough or chapped hands and face. You must mix this remarkable bleach yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

$14,515 FEE FOR COMMISSION

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 10.—One of the largest fees ever earned by the Missouri State Public Service Commission since its organization in 1913—amounting to $14,515—was turned over to the State Treasurer today by the commission.

The check was earned by the commission in connection with the approval on Aug. 15, 1923, by the commission of a $50,000,000 bond issue by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., with Missouri headquarters at St. Louis. The total amount of fees earned and collected by the service commission during 1923 amounted to $48,397.10. These fees go into the contingent fund of the commission for the expenses of its operations.

MAYFIELD DENIES HE PLOTTED WITH KLAN

Texan Charges That $73,000 Was Spent in Senatorial Campaign by His Opponent.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Denying all the allegations of George E. B. Peddy, his opponent, Senator Mayfield, Democrat, Texas, today answered the charges of the Senate Elections Committee, sets up the counter-charge that the contest for his seat is not brought in good faith. Senator Mayfield not only denies that he violated the laws of Texas, but also that the Ku Klux Klan or any other person spent $150,000 or any other unlawful sum with him in his knowledge or that any sum or sums of money were spent unlawfully or improperly in his behalf.

The Senator says that Peddy's charges are not preferred in good faith, since statements by Peddy and the committee having charge of his campaign "show that more than $74,000 was spent by him and in his behalf." Mayfield asserts that of the $73,285 spent by the committee handling Peddy's campaign, $10,000 was a "contribution from the Texas Republican headquarters and with the exception of $4475, the balance of $58,810 was contributed and underwritten by J. H. Kirby and J. S. Cullinan of Houston, two oil millionaires of Texas." Denial is also made that any voters either in the primary or the general election were intimidated by him or anyone under his direction or within his knowledge, or that he was "engaged in any conspiracy with the Ku Klux Klan or any other person or organization for any purpose whatsoever in said election."

Attention is called to the fact that on April 1, 1922, a Dallas newspaper sent questionnaires to all senatorial candidates asking their position on the Klan and that Mayfield replied on April 14: "The recent agitation about the Ku Klux Klan is confined largely to the City of Dallas and is nothing more or less than a political fracas raised by Dallas politicians for the purpose of boosting the candidacy of a certain candidate for the United States Senate. I refuse to walk into their trap."

DEFINES LIMITS TO WORK OF TRADE ASSOCIATIONS

Daugherty Holds They May Not Give Data to Members, but to Commerce Department.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Although the attorney general forbids the collection and distribution of business statistics among its members by a trade association, in the opinion of Attorney-General Daugherty, such an organization may supply the same information to the Commerce Department for general circulation.

The Attorney-General's opinion was expressed at the request of Secretary Hoover, as the result of court decisions ordering trade associations that have been assisting the Commerce Department in its collection of statistics to cease the private circulation among members of information as to production, shipments, stocks on hand, prices on closed transactions and other data.

vaunts in the form of tax-exempt certificates, the treasury today made public a compilation showing that on Jan. 1 a total of $12,290,000,000 in such securities was in the hands of the American people. The treasury figures were said to include only one issue, the Liberty 2 1/2 per cent bond, of the Federal Government, but exclude all securities deposited with the Government and other circulation bonds. Other issues are partially exempt and Secretary Mellon believes the figure given probably underestimates the exact amount outstanding.

The Treasury experts estimate that the total would be $14,670,000,000 if securities held in the Treasury or in sinking or trust funds of states and municipalities were included. Of this total, tax-exempt securities, $11,036,000,000 has been issued by states, counties or municipalities and but $1,599,999,999 of this amount is held in sinking or trust funds. United States Government bonds which are wholly tax exempt amount to $2,294,000,000, and $733,000,000 are deposited in the Treasury as security for circulation.

The Federal land banks, intermediate credit banks and joint stock land banks have issued $1,228,000,000 of tax-exempt obligations, but $105,000,000 of this amount is owned by the Federal Government or held in trust by it for national banks. Insular possessions of the United States have issued $112,000,000, of which $3,000,000 are deposited in the Treasury as security for circulation.

$200,000 SEWER PAYROLL WASTE IN 10 YEARS CHARGED

Bureau of Municipal Research Contends That Amount Was Needlessly Paid in Salaries.

The charge that $200,000 has been expended needlessly in the last 10 years in salaries of sewer inspectors, is contained in a bulletin issued today by the Bureau of Municipal Research.

The bureau prints correspondence in which it is required, from Director Fisk of the Department of Streets and Sewers, as to the discharge of 19 employees Dec. 1 last who were carried on the payrolls as laborers, and who had the duties and the pay of sewer inspectors.

In the department's reply, prepared by E. Paffrath, superintendent of the sewer division, it is stated that the 19 men were dismissed "on account of a new agreement whereby their work has been taken over by the district superintendents."

Reply of Research Bureau. Replying to this, the bureau says: "The 19 inspectors were paid about $20,000 annually. If the inspection force is not needed now, it was not needed in previous years, and on this basis $200,000 has been expended in 10 years for needless inspection."

Besides the 19 dismissed inspectors, the bureau's bulletin cites 18 other cases in which employees or recent employees of the Sewer Maintenance and Cleaning Section are doing other work and drawing other pay than that of the jobs indicated on the department's rolls. Some are doing clerical work.

The Department of Streets and Sewers has made known the fact that its roll of employees, which has to correspond to the ordinance governing the organization of the department, does not indicate in all cases the work which the employees do. This, the department officials say, is because the organization ordinance is out of date, and does not correspond to the present needs of the department. A proposal for a new ordinance has been drafted and is to be presented to the Board of Aldermen. After it is enacted, the department officials say, the list and payroll can be regularized. All this is repeated in the published reply to the bureau's inquiries.

Men Who Did Outside Work. The bureau also asks as to two men who were found to be doing outside work while employed in the department, and who were discharged. This matter has been told previously, the department's version being that the men were dismissed as soon as their outside activities were discovered.

The bureau comments, however: "It is difficult to see how these men could have received their instructions and how they could have accounted for their duties for two years in a satisfactory manner to the department head who approved their payroll."

A new question, relating to an excess of employees in the mechanical section, is the following: "Is it not true that three pump operators are regularly employed at $115 per month to operate a motor sewage pump at Union and Lindell boulevards, and that as a matter of fact the pump has not been operated more than 95 hours during the 11 months of this year and that during entire months it was not operated at all—during others only one or two hours?"

The department's reply to this matter, prepared by Supt. Paffrath, is:

In regard to the pump working only 95 hours in 11 months, I wish to say that is not the case and is highly exaggerated. This estimate should not be made without consulting the head of the department. It is true that there are times when the pumps are being repaired and it has been necessary in the past, to take the pumps down for cleaning purposes or to repair them. During this time the pumps are not in operation. These pumps work every day that they are in working order, which is 80 per cent of the time. However, on account of conditions which exist and will continue to exist at this point until the River des Peres sewer is constructed, we are going to cut this force down to one man."

But the bureau stands by its original charge, as follows: Our statement concerning the sewage pump at Union boulevard and the River des Peres is not exaggerated. The pump operators have stated that only the 75-horsepower motor is used and that the two 25-horsepower motors have not been used for six years.

What Power Bills Show. The power bills paid by the city for operating this pump during the 20 months since April 1, 1922, total 2886 k. w. hours of electric current. During the months of January, February and September, 1922, no current was used. The manufacturer of the motor states that at full load it requires 54 k. w. of electricity per hour and at half load 27 k. w.

hours during the 20 months' period. "Three pump operators were paid full time and the two others full time for the first half of each month."

4 MONTHS IN JAIL FOR WOMAN BAR KEEPER

Second Similar Liquor Sentence in Week in the County.

The second jail sentence in a week against a woman for liquor violations was assessed today by Circuit Judge Wurdeman at Clayton against Mrs. Margaret Stanley, 24, a divorcee, of 4662 Page boulevard. She was sentenced to four months in the county jail and fined $500. She filed notice of appeal and was released on $500 bond.

Deputy Sheriffs testified to finding a saloon at 6519 Easton avenue, formerly conducted by Mrs. Stanley, on June 9, last, and several times before that date, and finding beer and whisky. Mrs. Stanley waived trial by jury, and did not take the stand. She has sold the bar and is now a telephone operator.

As Mrs. Stanley was leaving the courtroom she was taken into custody on an indictment returned by the grand jury charging her with receiving stolen property. She was released on $2500 bond on this charge. She was of the opinion that the charge was based on some cigars found in her saloon. Last Friday Mrs. Bertha Blier, 50 years old, and the mother of five children, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $500 by Judge Wurdeman for contempt of court in violating an injunction against liquor sales in a saloon in which she and her husband are interested. Sentence was later suspended on her promise to leave St. Louis County.

COLLEGE HEAD KNOCKED OUT

Former Instructor Alleged to Have Pummelled Him.

HOUGHTON, Mich., Jan. 10.—Dr. F. W. McNair, president of the Michigan College of Mines here, was knocked unconscious and severely injured about the face, head and back by Clarence L. Christiansen, former instructor in the college, who is alleged to have attacked Dr. McNair in his private office on Dec. 22, according to testimony in court yesterday. The alleged assault became known when Christiansen was given a preliminary hearing on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm. According to testimony by Dr. McNair, Christiansen was asked by the president to resign on Dec. 20 because of conduct in the classroom which was not approved by the president.

Nolte was elected president; D. F. Sechenbrenner, vice president; Earl E. Meeks, treasurer, and Jean Knott, chairman of the Interference Committee.

IN E. ST. LOUIS RAIDSEleven Saloons Visited Simultaneously—Liquors Reported Found.Twenty-two Federal prohibition enforcement agents made a series of simultaneous raids in East St.
Louis today, following the plan used yesterday in Belleville, where 11 saloons were raided at one time, two agents visiting each place.In the East St. Louis raids quantities of liquor were reported found at the residence of Paul Motyl, 1320 North Fourteenth street, and at the saloons of Jerry Baxter, Seventeenth street and East Broadway, and Frank Kusior, 332 Exchange avenue. Other raids were change saloons of Peter Detbridge, 600 West Missouri avenue; Peter Jozayk, 331 North Seventh street, and John Manoli, 215 Missouri avenue, where, it was said, liquor had been purchased by agents prior to the raids.The raids were directed by George M. Scruggs, East St. Louis group chief, and Charles Vursell, chief field officer for the state. Sixteen agents were brought from Chicago for the raids.Two Men to Each Saloon.
The raiders went to Belleville on the same street car, but left the car
at different streets, timing themselves to arrive at the saloons at the same time. Two men were assigned to a saloon.Places where small quantities of liquor were reported found, follow: Joseph Large, 215 West Main street; Hobart Miller, 624 South Illinois avenue, whose bartender, Henry Saul, also was ordered to appear and give bond; James Blan-sett, 404 Syracuse street; Charles Wiener, 614 South Charles street, and Arthur and Henry Reipschneider, 200 North Illinois avenue.Other places raided were Willard Little, 301 North High street;

Southern Railroad tracks; Peter Stark, Third and Washington streets; Mrs. Alec Maule, 20 West Main street; Gus Velle, C and Second streets, and Edward Wolf, 324 North Illinois avenue.Whisky Handed Over.When the agents entered the Reipschneider saloon the proprietor tossed a bottle containing whisky to Arthur, who then surrendered it to the agents without protest.At another place, when an agent angered the telephone, a voice said:"Get your stuff concealed; agents are raiding the town.""We've already got it," the agent replied. The party calling hung up the receiver.Bank in Leroy, Ill., Closed.

BUILDER SAYS HE, NOT SIEGEL, TOLD OF PRICE FIXING

Fred L. Cornwell Tells How He Sought to Persuade Barrett Not to Prosecute
Two Companies.

TRIED TO SAVE DARR, HUTTIG CONCERNS

Says Garesche Got Attorney-General to Dinner Attended by Mayor Kiel and Kreismann.

Fred L. Cornwell, lawyer and apartment house builder, last night disclosed the influence by which he attempted to induce Attorney-General Barrett to withhold prosecution of the Huttig Sash and Door
Co. and the John M. Darr & Sons Planing Mill Co. under the anti-trust laws.

In his statement, Cornwell supported A. J. Siegel's denial that he had told the Attorney-General that building material dealers in St.
Louis were in a price-fixing combination.

Siegel, president of the Huttig company, testified yesterday before Commissioner Shackelford in the antitrust proceedings against the St. Louis Planing Mill Association
and its 14 members. He denied that he had made admissions to the Attorney-General at a dinner with the latter on Jan. 23, 1931, at Mission Inn, on South Grand boulevard.

Says He Made Admissions.
Cornwell said he was the person who made to Barrett the statements attributed by Barrett to Sie-gel, which Barrett at the hearing yesterday unsuccessfully attempted to induce Siegel to say he had made as admissions at the Mission Inn dinner.

Barrett, in questions which were largely in the form of statements purporting to repeat statements he asserted Siegel had made at the dinner, declared Siegel had said all the elements of the building material trade in St. Louis were highly organized, and that some of them had "air-tight combinations." The general tenor of all the statements,
as given by Barrett, was that Siegel had doubts of the legality of the St. Louis Planing Mill Association, of which his company was a member, and desired to withdraw from

it. Some statements went so far as to quote Siegel as having said that if the associations were dissolved, building prices would be lowered and there would be a revival of construction in St. Louis.

Linked Up the Politicians.
Siegel flatly denied virtually every statement attributed to him by the Attorney-General, admitting only that there was a general understanding that if the Attorney-General believed the planing mill association was guilty of illegal practice, he would withdraw from it.

Cornwell's statement was to the effect that, as a large purchaser
from the Huttig and Darr companies, he knew they were not in any price-fixing combine, and that he believed it was an injustice to include them in a prosecution of that character. Accordingly, he undertook to bring influence to bear upon Attorney-General Barrett to "show him the truth" as to these two companies. He acted on his own motion, he said, and over the protest of Siegel.

He conferred with Mayor Kiel, head of a big brick contracting company; with former Mayor Kreismann and Vital W. Garesche, then a Circuit Judge. Barrett is a Republican, and all of those Cornwell interested in the conference are Republicans.

Garesche's Part.
Judge Garesche was charged with the duty of getting the Attorney-General to St. Louis. He succeeded and the Mission Inn dinner was arranged, Siegel being summoned after the others had conferred with Barrett for several hours. Cornwell asserts that Siegel objected even to meeting the Attorney-General, but finally consented.

Cornwell said that in view of his experience with the Huttig company and his belief that it was not a party to illegal practices, he told Siegel of his intention to get in touch with Barrett with a view to protecting the Huttig company from a prosecution he was convinced would be unjust. Siegel, he said, objected, but finally told him to use his own judgment.

He then conferred with Mayor Kiel, Garesche and Kreismann and the inner at Mission Inn was arranged, Garesche asking Barrett to attend.

In making the arrangements with Kiel, Kreismann and Garesche, Cornwell said, he told them of his experiences with the Huttig and Darr companies, and said that as the cost sheets of the companies always were available to him
when he placed orders with them,
he knew the charges against them were unjust.

"I suggested to them that I arrange a dinner at which true information would be given to the Attorney-General," Cornwell said. "I hoped to show him that neither was a member of a price-fixing combination."

"During the course of the dinner," he said, "the Attorney-General stated that in the City of St. Louis there was a uniform price on cement, reinforced steel, sand, gravel, lime, heating and plumbing supplies, and that there was competition in millwork. I told him that it did not make any difference whether the cement was manufactured at Hannibal or St. Louis, that you paid the same price per barrel, and that there was no doubt in my mind that there was an air-tight combination in the material mentioned. I told him that if one bought he bought it from the combination."

"I am not trying the case in the newspapers. The issue is not determined yet and you may be assured there will be additional testimony, but it will be added in
the proper place."

VIOLINIST AND PIANIST IN

St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's Concert to be Broadcast Tonight.

A studio program was given at Station K S D last night by Ben M.
Goodsell, violinist of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and Miss Virginia Williams, pianist. Good-sell played a varied program of melodious and pyrotechnic compositions. Several were compositions not usually heard on the radio.

The program was given in the interval between the two concerts broadcast from Hotel Statler.
Tonight, Station K S D will broadcast the concert of the St.
Louis Symphony Orchestra at the Odeon in which Michel Guskoff, the young concertmaster of the orchestra, will be soloist.

at the combination price or net at all.
The dinner proceeded to about 9
p. m. Mr. Barrett expressed a desire to meet Mr. Siegel, the president of the Huttig Sash and Door
Company, and I told him it was at home I would have him come down
and corroborate my statements that there was competition
in millwork, and my further statement that if the Millmen's Associa-
withdraw from it at once.

What He Says Siegel Said.
"At Barrett's request, I telephoned Mr. Siegel at his residence,
and he told me that he did not see any reason why he should see the Attorney-General or have any communication with him. I again urged him to come. He told me that his chauffeur had gone home and that he had no way to get there. I told him I would send my car for him,
and he came down, arriving about 10 o'clock and remaining 25 or 30
minutes."

"Before Siegel consented to come
I told him that I was satisfied that
after he had talked with Attorney-General Barrett that he favored my General Barrett that the latter
would feel that the suit against
and would not press it further."

"My recollection of the discussion
between the Siegel and the Attorney-General is identical with the testimony of Mr. Siegel on that point."

"At no time during their conversation was the comparative cost of building in 1913 and 1921 mentioned."

"Siegel told Barrett, if in his opinion the association was illegal,
that he would resign from it; that he did not want to belong to any organization which the chief law
officer of the city had pronounced illegal. Siegel also told Barrett he did not believe the association was illegal, but if he thought it was that the Huttig Sash and Door Co.
would immediately withdraw."

Apparently in anticipation of Cornwell's statement, Attorney-
General Barrett at the hearing
yesterday questioned Siegel as to
the business done by Cornwell
with the Huttig company, referring to Cornwell as "a favored customer." Siegel said Cornwell was a good customer and obtained
prices which any purchaser in
large quantities would obtain.

Mayor Kiel and former Mayor
Kreismann, after reading the statement Cornwell had prepared, corroborated Cornwell's statement
and there had been no plan for Siegel
to attend the dinner, and that most of the statements Barrett contended
were admissions by Siegel were in reality statements made by Cornwell before Siegel arrived.
Cornwell, however, said he had told Barrett there was competition in
the planing mill business, but that there were combinations in other building material lines in St. Louis.
Attorney-General Barrett in Jefferson City, when asked for a statement in reply to Cornwell
said:

"I am not trying the case in the newspapers. The issue is not determined yet and you may be assured there will be additional testimony, but it will be added in
the proper place."

The dinner proceeded to about 9
p. m. Mr. Barrett expressed a desire to meet Mr. Siegel, the president of the Huttig Sash and Door
Company, and I told him it was at home I would have him come down
and corroborate my statements that there was competition
in millwork, and my further statement that if the Millmen's Association was illegal that Siegel would
withdraw from it at once.

What He Says Siegel Said.
"At Barrett's request, I tele-
phoned Mr. Siegel at his residence,
and he told me that he did not see
any reason why he should see the Attorney-General or have any communication with him. I again urged him to come. He told me that his chauffeur had gone home and that he had no way to get there. I told
him I would send my car for him,
and he came down, arriving about 10 o'clock and remaining 25 or 30
minutes."

"Before Siegel consented to come
I told him that I was satisfied that
after he had talked with Attorney-
General Barrett that he favored my General Barrett that the latter
would feel that the suit against Siegel's company was a great injustice
and would not press it further."

"My recollection of the discussion
between the Siegel and the Attorney-General is identical with the testimony of Mr. Siegel on that point."

"At no time during their conversation was the comparative cost of building in 1913 and 1921 mentioned."

"Siegel told Barrett, if in his opinion the association was illegal,
that he would resign from it; that
he did not want to belong to any
organization which the chief law
officer of the city had pronounced
illegal. Siegel also told Barrett he did not believe the association was
illegal, but if he thought it was
that the Huttig Sash and Door Co.
would immediately withdraw."

Apparently in anticipation of Cornwell's statement, Attorney-
General Barrett at the hearing
yesterday questioned Siegel as to
the business done by Cornwell
with the Huttig company, referring to Cornwell as "a favored customer." Siegel said Cornwell was
a good customer and obtained
prices which any purchaser in
large quantities would obtain.

Mayor Kiel and former Mayor
Kreismann, after reading the statement Cornwell had prepared, cor-
roborated Cornwell's statement
and there had been no plan for Siegel
to attend the dinner, and that most
of the statements Barrett contended
were admissions by Siegel were in reality statements made by Cornwell before Siegel arrived.
Cornwell, however, said he had told Barrett there was competition in
the planing mill business, but that
there were combinations in other
building material lines in St. Louis.
Attorney-General Barrett in Jefferson City, when asked for a statement in reply to Cornwell
said:

"I am not trying the case in the newspapers. The issue is not determined yet and you may be assured there will be additional testimony, but it will be added in
the proper place."

Only Things Not Disputed. The only undisputed statements in the controversy between At- torney-General Barrett and Siegel was that there was an understand- ing that Siegel should write a let- ter seeking Barrett's opinion as to the legality of the Planing Mill Association, that Barrett was to hold it illegal, and that Siegel would withdraw the Huttig com- pany from the association.

Almost simultaneously with the publication of Barrett's letter to Siegel, the withdrawal of the Hut-tig company from the association was announced. Siegel afterward said the withdrawal was before he received knowledge of Barrett's letter.

The matter first came to public attention about two weeks after the dinner, when Barrett wrote Siegel a letter, which Barrett made public, expressing surprise that he had not received the expected letter from Siegel and setting forth Barrett's version of what occurred at the dinner. Barrett's statements in that letter corresponded with the statements he made before

Commissioner Shackelford yesterday.

Gibbons' Adviser Consults Rickard About Big Bout

Kane in New York to Discuss Carpenter, Tunney and Dempsey Fights.

CARPENTIER PREFERRED

Probability Strong That Former Idol of France Will Get First Call.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10.—A bout between Tom Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight challenger, and Georges Carpentier, the exotic heavyweights, was cooking merrily in the oven today as the result of a conference between Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, and Tex Rickard, over a low flame atmosphere of discussion.

These enterprises will oblige in the coming number of the outdoor season and it may be that Thomas will take on Tunney at the Garden within six weeks just for the sake of keeping his knuckles working and his wares, however, primarily the hors d'oeuvres to the main course, which is none other than another fling at Dempsey's chin and the heavyweight title. The occasion is in question, a victory or a defeat for a date in May.

Kane would neither deny nor affirm the foregoing program for months of his own.

Dempsey Last of All. "Gibbons will take on Tunney, McGee, Greb, Renault and, in fact, the entire field," Kane said. "After that, Dempsey. We are making no secret of the fact that our campaign is directed toward a single bout with the champion and it begins to look as though we'll get it."

"However, I want to say now that I have been negotiating with Jim Kelly, Western promoter, and he will take no definite action until I hear further from him."

This last statement is said to come under the head of sweet peas, and is not to be taken too seriously. Gibbons is again needed "over the pond" following his lacerated left sticking 15 rounds with Dempsey at Shelby. Only Rickard can supply the need. He has most of the big business, including Carpentier, locked in his office safe and it is altogether unlikely that he will attempt to do business with any other promoter.

Kane, according to all accounts, is in the East for no other purpose than to interest Rickard in Gibbons' future. If he succeeds to the extent of wishing Tom into a frolic with the champion, it is inevitable that Rickard will demand and receive an option on Gibbons' services against Dempsey. That is the way Rickard does business.

In fact, we have it on the best authority that the above program will be followed to the letter in due course.

Carpentier, hopefully believed, passed to the knowledge of the rounds; the inevitable comparison between Dempsey and Gibbons against the pale flower of France and the reluctant announcement that Rickard has stationed the pair in order to meet the demand of the public.

Rickard is the most plausible man in the world at this end of the business and he has the advantage in a section where he can play around with the son money. Gibbons himself can testify to the fact that he has made comparatively little money for a man of his ability, because he has no power in the money he has acquired in the few fights he has had. Rickard's suspicion. He means to see that this condition of affairs does not become chronic.

CONCORDIA TO OPPOSE STRONG INDIANA FIVE IN GAME HERE SATURDAY

With two defeats in as many games, Concordia Seminary's basketball five faces a big problem when it opposes the powerful Indiana State Normal team of Terre Haute at Holy Cross Hall, next Saturday night.

Last season the South Siders apparently presented a stronger line-up than this year, and still they were able to defeat the Teachers by a three-point margin only. The Indiana men have lost only one of 21 games, and two of these were to the champion teams of Indiana, Franklin and the College of the Holy Cross, in independent circles. They barely lost to Indiana State University, being noed out in the few minutes of play by three points. Franklin, Indiana champions this year, beat them by the score of 26-20.

Hagen to Play Abroad. The Associated Press. HAGEN, Fla., Jan. 10.—Walter Hagen, former British open golf champion, will compete this year in the British open tournament at Mayke, he said last night. He said he would sail for England on June 10 to enter the tournament.

He Will Battle For Two Titles At the Age of 35

Light Heavy Holds Middleweight Ring Title While Middleweight Holds Light-Heavyweight Crown

Confusion in Fight World Is Due to Willingness of Both McGee and Harry Greb to Make or Concede Weight—Each Sees Chance to Become Double Titleholder.

By Fair Play.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Some like Harry Greb and others do not. But no one can deny that he is always interesting and always a source of news. Just now he is figuring from the events of the fighting world more prominently than any other fighter.

Like Dempsey, Greb is one fighter who never quibbles about weight. A middleweight, he won the light heavyweight crown. Beaten out of his light heavyweight title, he trained down and won the middleweight honors. Now he is to defend this title.

First Johnny Wilson heard that Greb would enter the ring, for this bout weighing nearer 170 pounds than 160, the middleweight limit. Thereupon, he put up a demand that Greb should fight at a weight which Greb never blinked over the proposition, agreeing at once. So it is a safe bet the champion will enter the Garden ring on the night of Jan. 18 at the class weight limit—with the addition, of course, of such pounds as he can pile on between 2 o'clock the afternoon of the battle and 10 o'clock at night.

Greb a Real "Sport." Greb's expressed willingness to make 160 pounds is somewhat surprising since he could weigh 165 and make faces at the "boxing commission" if that body tried to punish him. And at the same time, he would be stronger than at 160. He must be pretty confident of his ability to go 15 rounds at top speed at the lighter weight.

Some interesting dickerings are going on concerning Greb and Mike McTigue. Harry sees a chance to win the light heavy title by beating Michael, and Michael in turn sees a chance to win the world's middleweight title by defeating Greb. Promoters are trying to get the two men to consent to a fight.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Following is a list of today's high, low and closing prices for stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. Stocks are in 100 share lots except in the case of Standard Oil, which is in 10 share lots and in the case of Bonds, which are in $1,000 face value each.

Weakness returned to the foreign exchange market, and the French franc touched a new low at 45 1/2 cents, despite an increase from 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 per cent in the Bank of France discount rate. This advance was a move in the French campaign to protect the franc and while its effects were not visible today it is much more likely to be effective than the official measure which French officials have proposed.

BANK OF FRANCE DISCOUNT RATE IS RAISED TO 5 1/2 P. C.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—The Bank of France today raised its discount rate from 5 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent.

The increase in the rate is reported in financial circles to be a result of the heavy discounting of bank bills and the desire of preventing creditable new issues.

The statement of the Bank of France on Jan. 3 shows the bank had received an increase of 500,000 francs over the previous week. This was partly accounted for by the issuance of one billion francs in bank notes to meet the demands of the French bank rate has stood at 3 per cent since March 11, 1923.

Those who have used it ask:

"What makes it clear away a rash so quickly?"

Physicians say: "Because Resinol sinks deep into the pores and starts the skin again acting normally."

STUBBORN rashes, eczema and skin disorders—itching, unpleasant, embarrassing! For years this simple treatment has been used successfully on irritations that in many cases nothing else seemed able to relieve. In a few days often they would vanish—the itching stop, the clear, clean texture of the skin be restored.

Thousands of users have wondered at the quickness of its action. Yet physicians who prescribe it say there is no mystery. Deep down under the surface, where many salves and remedies fail to reach, are the tiny cells and nerves that cause the trouble. These Resinol reaches. Even a light application sinks deep into the pores, attacks the root of the disorder, and starts the skin again acting normally.

At first distributed only through doctors' prescriptions, Resinol has today become in thousands of homes the first remedy applied to any sort of skin affection.

If you have today any spot, rash or eruption on your skin, apply Resinol. Spread a coating on the affected surface and smooth it in very gently with the fingers. One application will, in many cases, stop the itching completely. Resinol is absolutely harmless. It will not irritate the delicate texture of an infant's skin, or even raw exposed flesh. Get a jar at your druggist or send for a free trial sample to Dept. 3, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

The POST-DISPATCH is the only St. Louis evening newspaper giving Associated Press news service.

$1,784,150 GOES TO REPLACE SHIPS SOLD AT A LOSS

Farley Has Let Contracts for Reconditioning Vessels to Go Into Route President Liners Had.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—The Post-Dispatch and New York World today present Chapter No. 2 in the deal between Edward P. Farley, who resigned as chairman of the Shipping Board when the Senate refused to confirm his nomination, and R. Stanley Dollar, vice president of the Dollar Steamship Lines of San Francisco.

The first chapter, told exclusively in the Post-Dispatch yesterday, showed how Farley sold for $3,550,000 seven of the "President ships" which cost the Government almost $20,000,000. Five of these vessels were taken from the North Atlantic trade route between New York and London. To replace them, Farley let contracts for reconditioning five war-time Hog Island-built transports and the board proposes to put them in operation in a route which Farley admitted never paid and which shipping experts say never will under these conditions. This is the second episode.

The "President" ship deal, made in secret, turned over on long-time credit at 4 per cent interest seven of the finest ships in the fleet at $2,490 a ton, which was about one-sixth of what Farley has said was the world price for freight tonnage.

President Ships Not Freighters. But the President boats, known as the 592's, are not freighters. To quote from the sales contract, they are "classed at the highest classification for vessels of their type in the American Bureau of Shipping and with certificates of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service in full force and effect."

Soon after this deal was put through Farley's nomination came before the Senate, and Dec. 22 the Senate Commerce Committee reported his name adversely. This in spite of the fact that the committee has had a Republican majority since 1918, and in spite of the fact that Farley was appointed by President Harding at Chairman Lasker's request and reappointed by Coolidge.

It was given out at the time that Farley's nomination would not comply with the geographical provisions of the Jones act, the merchant marine law of 1920, which prohibits more than one Shipping Board member from the region of the Great Lakes.

But the chief stumbling block in Farley's path was Senator Fletcher, Democrat, Florida, veteran Senator and ranking member of the Commerce Committee, who has announced he intends to expose the Shipping Board.

Senator Fletcher got wind of the President ship deal, wrote Farley demanding a copy of the dollar contract and got it.

At the same time Farley sent the Senator a letter of explanation, which said that of the seven President ships, the five in the New York-London trade were losing an average of $55,484 a voyage. This deficit had to be made up out of taxpayers' pockets. The operators handling the vessels for the Shipping Board lost nothing.

Would Recondition Transports. Having taken the five ships off the trade routes and sold them to the Dollar Company, the board now proposes to replace them with the war-built transports, which are known as Hog Island D-style ships. All are in or near New York at the present. They are the Marpe, Ourcq, Alsne, Tours and Cantigny.

The vessels, of 7555 gross tons each, are 436.9 feet long, 58.2 feet beam, 40 feet depth, have 6000 horsepower engines and can make about 16 knots an hour. They were not completed until after the war and were then laid up and finally turned over to the Shipping Board. All are to have new names. The Marpe becomes the American Trader, Ourcq the American Farmer, Alsne the American Merchant, Tours the American Shipper and Cantigny the American Banker.

The Ourcq is being reconditioned by the Staten Island Ship Building Co. She will be ready in 100 days and will cost $298,500; the Alsne in the Navy Yard. It will take 90 days to overhaul her and the cost will be $290,000. The Cantigny, Marpe and Tours are being reconditioned by the Federal Ship Building Co., Kearney, N. J. These will be ready in 75 days. The Cantigny will cost $240,550 and the Marpe and Tours $232,000 each. The cost of reconditioning the Hog Island transports to replace the President ships will be $1,784,150.

This added to the loss on the sale of five of the seven President ships makes a grand total of $19,419,573.53 net loss to the taxpayers.

The Fir and the Palm

—A Continued Story—

By PRINCESS BIBESCO

SYNOPSIS.

Helen, with her husband, Cyril (Lord Hortham), arrives at the Hortham country house, one of England's famous country houses. Cyril is passionately in love with his wife, but she is unaware of it. When he married her he had wanted her to throw herself into his arms, and, instead, she had walked up his marble staircase. Cyril was over forty when he married Helen. He found her living with her father, who was a gambler, in a pension in Italy.

Helen has called on her new neighbors, the Baldwins, for the first time. She has presided at a charity bazaar given on their estate. John Baldwin had acquired an immense fortune during the war. They have a young son still in school. Their nephew, Toby Ross, lives in a small house on the estate.

Cyril's mother comes to Helen's Court for a visit. Helen, at Cyril's suggestion, invites Toby Ross to dinner to meet her. Helen finds herself intensely interested in Toby. She goes to his cottage, where she has dinner alone with him.

Helen gives a house party in the country. Christopher Tydesley, a lifelong friend of Cyril's, is one of the guests. He is in love with Helen. Toby comes over for the dance which Helen gives the first night of the party. He kisses her before he leaves. Later Helen goes up to London for the season.

MORE LETTERS.

LONDON, July —

HELEN TO TOBY.

WE ARE being as good as gold—killing not a few birds, but whole aviaries with a series of parties, each duller than the last. Cyril behaves incredibly well because to him nearly all people mean nothing except in so far as they might affect his personal standards by entangling him in the faintest gesture of irritation or discourtesy. I tell him that it is magnificent, but not hospitality, and he says, "Touche" in a way that makes me realize what an exquisite thing his standard of hospitality is—far too exquisite to be mixed up with mere entertaining. Have you ever noticed that about Cyril? How any criticism of him ultimately ends by convincing one of one's own crudity?

"I talk and I listen and I laugh and I eat and I sleep—at least, I suppose I do—but when one's thoughts are divorced from one's acts it is the acts that become unreal."

"God bless you."

H."

LONDON, July —

HELEN TO TOBY.

"I saw your friend Selina at a ball last night. She was treating all of her partners with that little air of detached disdain which you found so irresistible. Virginia was there, too, in orange, her eyes shining like window panes with sunsets reflected in them. She sat for quite a long time on a sofa with a tall, fair young man. They were very intent. Mathew explained to me that she was telling him about his life in generalizations. He said it was the most dangerously personal of all methods of conversation, because there was literally nothing to stop one."

"I have been here four days—it seems such a long time. I met Netta in the street. She said, 'Hello, you young man.' I said, 'Which young man?' and though I know I ought to have been cross with her for being so impertinent and vulgar, I felt nothing but absurd pride and happiness at hearing you call me 'young man.' Do you know what it means to me every time you say 'we'? How exalted and humble and happy I feel? As if you were crowning me with an everlasting halo that nothing could take off."

"God bless you."

"I have been longing to hear from you—longing so that I pick up my letters with reverent trembling fingers in case one of them should be from you. You don't know the bills and the invitations that have been treated as love letters, slowly and deliberately opened so that I should be properly prepared. Do you know that I have never even seen your writing? Only I feel that I should know it at once. It would be nice to see the written Helen, each letter making my name precious and vivid to me. How deeply it would be printed on my mind, every stroke a new bit of happiness."

"When I am tired and have ceased to try to steer my thoughts I hear your voice saying, 'Helen,' and it echoes through my mind like an unconsciously hummed phrase, till suddenly I realize what it is, and it becomes a trumpet call waking me up to happiness."

"God bless you."

TOBY TO SELINA.

"Lavender Cottage, July —
"Dear Miss Cathcart: I am delighted to hear from Lady Hortham that you were seen at a ball making me many fellow sufferers. To show you how unjust is your estimate of my character, I am writing to ask you whether I may go to see you when I come to London. Surely humility can go no further than my voluntarily subjecting myself to your barbed tongue. Yours sincerely, TOBY ROSS."

SELINA TO TOBY.

"London, July —
"Dear Mr. Ross: They were, of course, not so much fellow sufferers as fellow criminals. I shall be delighted to see you, though I can't honestly advise you to come to London, which is intolerable just now. Fortunately, Helen has been here for a few days, lovelier and more aloof than ever. Christopher Tydesley came the whole way down from the North of Scotland to see her for one day, which is not at all the way in which you approve of your sex behaving, is it? Yours sincerely, SELINA CATHCART."

CHRISTOPHER TO HELEN.

"Rochester Lodge, Liverpool.
"I have been miserable ever since I parted from you at the thought that I had worried or hurt you. Precious darling, how could I do that? Surely you know I love you enough not only to do things for you—anything—but even not to do them, which is far harder. If you hadn't wanted me to come to London to see you, you know you need only have said it. You seemed so pale and tired and remote, with purple rims around your eyes, and I never felt that I got near you at all. It was as if you had wrapped yourself in a mist. And when I looked to pierce through it remained there, cold and white and impenetrable. Am I imagining all this? It isn't that I have ever conceived that you could love me—God knows I have never been such

THE WOMAN OF IT

By MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

LEAP YEAR STUFF

YES, of course women may propose, in 1924 or any other year—but only the unimaginative are reduced to doing it.

A woman's proposal will leave a man cold unless she first brings him to the boiling—beg pardon, proposing—point! If she does get him that far, SHE won't have to go farther!

To do her own proposing deprives a female forever of her most satisfying comeback: "Why did you ask me to marry you, when you don't know how to treat a wife?"

Also of that other comeback: "Everybody said I could have done so much better—but you wouldn't let me alone!"

No, indeed, the old-fashioned girl never proposed to a man. The only thing she did was to say, with just the proper quaver in her voice, that mother thought they ought not to see so much of each other—people were beginning to talk!

Sometimes a girl proposes, and sometimes, when he says, "Kid, you're a wonder! You've got ME going!" she answers, "We'll keep it a secret for the present, but you don't mind if I tell just mother?"

Sometimes a girl proposes, and sometimes when he's a week-end and weak-kneed—guest, she marches in on the family Sunday morning and announces calmly, "You might as well know that Paul and I are engaged!"

Advice to the popular young bachelor who would remain one: "Look before you. LEAP YEAR!"

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

THE woman who uses her beauty as a ladder upon which to climb to success is considered a somewhat modern institution.

In the annals of the current day she is put down as a product of that keen competition for success in business, the professions, and arts which has sprung up between men and women with the machine entry into the game of earning a livelihood.

It's a matter of all being fair in love, war and money-making, according to the amended theory.

As a matter of record, however, the woman who calculatedly uses her charm to influence the men she meets to assist her on her way to achievement is by no means new.

Throughout the history of femininity she has figured in some degree. But it was during the last of the seventeen hundreds that she came to the fore as a startling example of what may be accomplished by cool exploitation of personal attraction.

Her name became Lady Emma Hamilton during the course of her career. But she started out as the daughter of a poverty-stricken serving-woman, and she herself was a servant at the age of thirteen.

Ambition clutched her before she had been on her own for long. She sought to better herself by forsaking the country and moving to London, where she found employment as a maid at an inn.

There she attracted the attention of a quack doctor. He exhibited her, in connection with his wares, as the Golden Hygeia.

By this time Emma began to realize that she was beautiful and that she was naturally ardent and that a future lay ahead of her if she took advantage of opportunity.

Accordingly, when she chanced to meet Charles O'Neill, she lost no time in throwing about him the coils of infatuation. But he was merely a step to something more pretentious in the life of the shy Emma. Through him she met his uncle, Sir William Hamilton, Ambassador to Naples, and so adroitly had she become with practice that she found little difficulty in capturing the imagination and the actual affection of the nobleman.

He married her subsequently, moved with her to Naples and introduced her to the queen of the Italian city. Emma carried on the campaign for her own welfare by using her charm to influence the Queen.

While she was at the height of her power she added to her list the great Admiral Nelson, visitor at about the time of the battle of Copenhagen, and at Trafalgar. Upon the death of Sir William Hamilton, Lord Nelson installed her in a country seat in England, where she resided until the death of her protector.

Then, with fifty years crowding decay upon her and her own claim to power—her beauty—fast fading, she was reduced to poverty and thrown upon her own resources.

Finding herself unable to cope with the world she died in misery in 1815 at the age of fifty-four.

Line a deep pie-plate with good crust and finish the top by marking it with the tines of a floured fork. Put four small or three large bananas through the ricer. Make a four-egg custard, using the yolks of all and the whites of two eggs, a half cupful of sugar, a pint and a half of milk, a teaspoonful of vanilla and a little grated nutmeg. Beat in the bananas after working into them a level teaspoonful of flour. Turn the banana custard into the crust and bake the pie. By the time the crust is done, the custard will be set. Use the remainder of the egg whites for a meringue, beating into them six teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar and a few drops of vanilla. Spread the meringue over the top of the pie and let it brown in the oven.

Hope for the best, get the worst and then take what comes to hand.

LIVING UP TO HIGH IDEALS

YOUNG man, what is the matter? Is it 11 o'clock Sunday morning. You are just out of bed. "Too tired to go to church," you say.
The chief trouble is that you hate yourself. You know that the $10 which you parted with in going your rounds last night was not well spent. You know that you

Thinks That We Need More American Cooking

LOYD GEORGE is back in England—and he's talking about us. In one speech he told a large and enthusiastic audience that he couldn't get a pot of Boston baked beans in all America. "I've heard about them for years," he said, "and the American pie, I couldn't get that, either. The American cooks aren't American at all—they're French, and that's a pity, somehow. I seem to think." And we Americans are quite stirred up about it. That's a good thing. It's about time for us to be stirred up about it. You can't get a well-cooked American dinner in a single first-class hotel in the United States of America. You can get beef a la mode and chicken a la king and sweet breads a la this, that and the other, all in the French fashion. You can get ravioli and spaghetti and zayavone after the Italian manner of cooking. And in California and the Southwest generally you can get enchiladas and frijoles and tamales—and they'll be hot enough to suit a Spaniard from Aragon himself. But baked beans in the Boston fashion; salt fish and pork, as they cook it on Cape Cod; stuffed mackerel, baked as they do it in Maine; strawberry shortcake as they make it, or used to make it, in the Middle West; Sally Lunn, that they used to make down South; hot biscuits, pop-over, not the big make-believe they give you in the hotels, but the real things; succotash with the beans fresh from the pod and the corn fresh from the cob; cornbread as it should be; home-made yeast bread, graham bread, layer cake, chocolate or coconut or jelly; Indian meal pudding—where are you going to get these things in America today?

An American Cooking School.

Why doesn't somebody start a school for American cooking? They have a school for French cooking in France, and when you graduate from it you get a blue ribbon and can draw your salary of five or ten thousand dollars almost anywhere you choose to ask for it.

Why doesn't some good old New England housekeeper open a school for cooks? And wouldn't it be great to have a Southern dandy for one of the teachers, too? And when the graduate of that school got their diplomas isn't there some big hotel in this country clever enough and enterprising enough to advertise typical American cooking and serve it—and see what would happen?

We have the best food in the world in the United States—the best meat, the best fowl, the best vegetables and more of them. Why, they never even heard of corn on the cob or succotash or summer squash or the right sort of melons anywhere until we had them in America. Are we going to let all our good, substantial, old-fashioned, American cookery go out of existence entirely?

Maple Sugar and Yellow Corn Meal.

There's maple sugar—try to get a piece of the genuine article once and see what a problem you are trying to solve. How long since you had a dish of genuine hominy—and where's the old-fashioned, water-ground, yellow cornmeal?—tell me that.
There's money in a school of American cookery. There's money in a hotel which will serve American food.
Who's going to be wise enough to follow up the idea—and get some of that money?

are cheaper and meaner than you were at quitting time Saturday afternoon.

You know that you have again violated your best ideals. You know that your mother can read you through at a glance.

But hatred and disgust will only make you your own worst enemy. Now, you must turn about and become your own best friend. You must quit hating your lower self and begin at once to respect your ideal self. I will tell you how.

That ideal picture of you, that finer and better self which you can become, is really the divine and universal personality latent within you. Only a few discover this hidden beauty of the higher self. Still fewer realize it by practice. Are you ready to switch from the lower to the higher?

Try to be faithful in the performance of your work, careful about expenditures, heedful of your health, and careful to read inspiring literature.

Just as an architect might work long and patiently in the sketching of a complex structure, continue to make and remake the mental picture of strength and serviceableness which are to be the framework of your future. You need not be a pride, nor soft, nor a sissy; but a sturdy, honest, earnest, inspired young soul, making your way toward an interesting goal.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

They had just the glimpse of a big form bounding for that tree.

WHITENOSE the Fox Squirrel and Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse were careless. Yes, sir, they were careless. They were so busy getting acquainted and so interested in learning about each other that all three forgot to watch out for danger. Yes, sir, they forgot, and that is the most careless thing that any one can do.

Danny and Nanny were on the ground, while Whitnose sat on top of the stump under which they were hiding. Whitnose was even more curious about Danny and Nanny than they were about him. You know, it was a wonderful story that Danny and Nanny had to tell about the way the great man-bird had brought them down to the Sunny South. Whitnose had seen that great man-bird, with its broken wing, as it stood on its head not far from where they were and had wondered about it.

Just why Whitnose turned his head and looked behind him when he did he probably doesn't know himself. But he did turn his head. "Run!" he screamed. And made a flying jump from the top of the stump to the nearest tree.

It was all so sudden and unexpected that for a minute Danny and Nanny didn't move. They saw Whitnose jump to the trunk of a tree and go up it so fast that in a second he had disappeared in the long, gray moss that hung from the branches of that tree. Before they could blink their little eyes there was a rush of feet from the back of that stump and they had just a glimpse of a big form bounding straight for that tree. Up the tree it went, quite as quickly as Whitnose had gone, and also disappeared in the long, gray moss. They heard the scratching of sharp claws on the bark high up in that tree, and then they had just a glimpse of Whitnose making a flying leap from the end of a long branch across to the branch of another tree.

With their little eyes almost popping out of their heads, they watched to see if Whitnose would be followed. He wasn't. Then they heard from up in that tree such an ugly, spitting snarl of rage and disappointment that it made the hair all over them stand right on end. They waited to see no more. They scurried into their home under the old stump as fast as their short legs could take them.

"Who do you suppose that terrible fellow was?" whispered Nanny.

"I haven't the least idea," Danny whispered back. "But the noise he made up in that tree sounded very much like the sounds I have heard Black Pussy the Cat make when she has been disappointed in catching me. Only this was ever and ever and ever so much louder."

"I'm so glad Whitnose got away," Nanny whispered. "I hope he'll come back. Probably he can tell us who that dreadful fellow is. My, but Whitnose had a narrow escape!"
"So did we," replied Danny soberly. "That fellow might have sneaked around this stump and caught us if it hadn't been that he saw Whitnose first. I guess, Nanny Meadow Mouse, we've got something to be thankful for. My, I haven't had such a fright since the great man-bird fell with us."

The Man on the Sandbox

TOO TRUE.

It's easy enough to be pleasant
When life flows along like a song;
But the fellow worth while
Is the one who can smile
When the alarm clock is ringing its gong.

CURTAINED.

FAIR ENOUGH.

Promoter Jimmy Mullen, who recently gained a point decision over Gov. Hyde, is figuring on giving the Governor a return match.

Incidentally Mullen is trying to arrange another meeting between Jack Dempsey and Tommy Gibbons. But not in St. Louis.

"Young" Stribling, who has been cutting such a wide swathe in pugilistic circles, was dropped by the principal of the Lanier High School of Macon, Ga. The professor told him that as boxing was not included in the curriculum of the high school he could teach him nothing more.

FAVORITE STORIES

By Irvin S. Cobb.

ADVICE TO THE BELEAGUERED ONE.

TOM LEWIS, the veteran actor, lives up to the inheritance of his Irish ancestry by being a witty turn of tongue and mind. Also, he loves nothing better than a good pugilistic mill. No fight of importance, taking place in or around New York would be complete unless Mr. Lewis had wedged his plump form into a ringside seat shortly before the proceedings started.

Last spring, while boxing bouts were still being held in the city armories, two of us accompanied Mr. Lewis for an evening at one of the big brick barracks where the national guard regiments are housed and drilled. The hall was packed with spectators. Outside, a crowd of late comers struggled at the ticket windows. But we had betthought ourselves to secure reserved seats in advance, so we marched right on in.

The preliminaries were over. The main event of the night got under way—a 10-round go between middleweights. Now, this had been touted beforehand as a set-to where two evenly matched and expert ringsters would show us all they had.

But alas, the trouble was that one of the fisticufflers had nothing to show. From the first moment, it was quite plain that not only was he outclassed but also that he had no stomach for punishment.

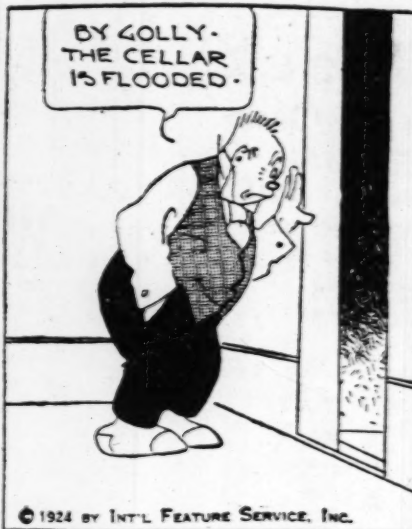

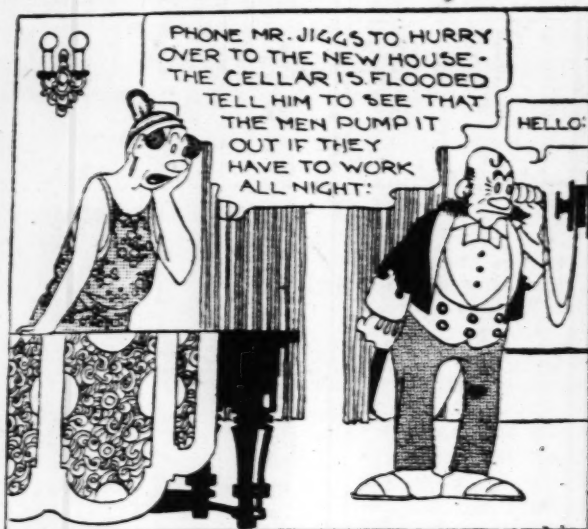

As his antagonist crowded upon him, slashing, jabbing and punching, he covered up, hiding his distressed face in his gloves and backed away. He scarcely offered any blows in return for the heavy rain of gloved clouds which played upon his ribs and his bread-basket. He just backed and kept on backing.

Above the disappointed murmurs of the multitude rose the deep bass tones of our friend:

"That's right, kid," shouted Lewis. "Ignore him! Ignore him!"

COOPER MADE TWO CALLS DAILY AT THE PRICE HOME

"Talked Business" There and Sometimes Dried the Dishes, He Tells Lawyer.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN IN ALIENATION SUIT

"Just Call Me Sherrie," Depo-
nent Admits He Told Woman Attorney—Called Her "Fannie."

Sheridan Cooper, who helped Mrs. Fannie Bonner Price dry the dishes at her home frequently, and once aided in preserving tomatoes or something there, but he had no feeling but friendship for her. He called her "Fannie" and she called him "Sherrie."

He admitted all this, and more, in a deposition yesterday in his wife's suit for $75,000 against Mrs. Price, a widow, for alleged alienation of affection.

Cooper said he resided at 4502 Chouteau avenue. He declared he did not know where Mrs. Price, whose residence is at 4548 Chouteau avenue, and who is an attorney and former president of the Women's Chamber of Commerce, had gone, following filing of the suit. Randolph Laughlin, attorney for the plaintiff, Mrs. Edna A. Cooper of 2708 Arkansas avenue, Cooper's wife, would like to reach Mrs. Price and take her deposition. Deposition taken at length. Cooper's deposition, which is to be finished late today, was taken at length. Attorney Laughlin jumping quickly from one phase to another of the case. Cooper was obviously what lawyers call an unfriendly witness and occasionally refused to answer questions, although warned that it would be possible to jail him for refusal. Once or twice a smile overcame his scowl. He is perhaps 35 years old; his head is partly bald and partly covered with close-cropped gray hair, and his complexion is ruddy. Mrs. Price is 49 years old. The matter of the mutual love of the names "Fannie" and "Sherrie" was one of the last things brought out. "Two or three months ago I told Mrs. Price I was tired of being called Mr. Cooper—just call me Sherrie," the witness said, and added that he had started calling her "Fannie" just two minutes before that.

"How often were you at Mrs. Price's home?" Attorney Laughlin asked Cooper, apparently referring to a recent period. "I was there every day," Cooper replied. "For about an hour in the morning and again in the evening."

"Talked business," "What did you do, there?" "Didn't you shave yourself there?" "Once. I didn't keep shaving things there, but I borrowed the razor of Mr. Bonner. Mrs. Price's father, who lived with her."

"Did anyone come to see you on business at the Price home?" "Yes, 30 or 40 people."
